SECOND RATION SIGNUP BEGINS

Supplemental Registration Starts in Star Auditorium; To Continue All Week.

Marion city and county vehicle owners unable to carry on their work with basic "A" gasoline ration, at noon today began making application for additional gasoline.

The supplemental registration got under way shortly after noon in The Star auditorium on North State street and will continue every day this week from 12 noon to 9 p. m., except Thursday, Thanksgiving day.

Robert F. Williams, chairman of the gasoline section of the Marion county rationing board, today reminded applicants they must have the application blanks filled out before they go to the auditorium.

Volunteers at Work

The volunteers who are working at the auditorium are to process the applications to see that they are properly filled out and that the applicant has cause to apply for more than the mileage of occupational driving a month provided on the basic card.

The staff is prepared to process applications for "B" and "C" cards for passenger vehicles; "T" cards for all commercial trucks, buses, ambulances, taxis, hearses, jitneys and any vehicle available for public rental; "E" and "R" cards for non-highway use in such vehicles as motor boats, tractors, farm machinery, airplanes, gas engines and cleaners and dyers, fleet rations and bulk coupons.

Mr. Williams emphasized that considerable time will be saved if the applications are mailed in to the county rationing board at 193 East Center street. Such applications will be handled at The Star auditorium by a special group who will be assigned to handle only mailed-in applications.

Mail Plan

After processing the application the worker will send the applicant a postal card asking that he go to the auditorium and furnish further information, or go to the auditorium and receive a ration book.

On duty at all times in the auditorium will be a review board, to which dissatisfied applicants may appeal, and supervisors to assist the volunteer workers.

These two groups, who have made a special study of the regulations, are in charge of Charles E. Cox, chairman.

On the review board every afternoon from 12 to 5:30 will be Rev. J. A. Carriker of Forest Lawn Presbyterian church, Samuel Almendinger of Prospect, Elmer Harris, Ray Poland and James R. Smith. Supervisors in the afternoon will be C. E. Gillespie and Keith Ridgway of LaRue and Donald E. Sloan.

The review board at nights, from 5:30 to 9, will be composed of Carl Schmidt, Mrs. Mayo Adams, Francis Huber, P. A. Lashley, Clarence Shockney and C. W. Davidson. The supervisors will be James H. Smith, Russell Dunlap, D. N. Boyher, John Gries, Paul Huffman, Ralph A. Kelly and Max Sechrist.

Auditorium Ready

Preparing the auditorium for the job started Saturday and was continued this morning. Tables and chairs furnished by the Marion county board of elections and The Star were set up the length of the hall. At the end of each

War Plant Opens Jobs for Thousands of Women

They'll Hold 80 Per Cent of Jobs at Scioto Ordnance Plant; Only One Day's Training Needed.

By BOB BYRD

Thousands of jobs for nimble-fingered women—jobs they can learn in a day's time and which involve only mechanical assembly operations—are being filled gradually by the U. S. Rubber Co., under contract to operate the Scioto Ordnance Plant for the war department.

The emphasis is on women workers just now for two reasons. In the first place, about 80 per cent of the ordnance plant employes are expected to be women—an even higher percentage than the 60 per cent estimate made several weeks ago.

The other reason is that although a big majority of the eventual personnel is expected to be women, most of the more than 8,000 persons who have applied for jobs so far are men.

Stanley Lake, employment manager, and other rubber company officials believe they know some of the reasons for the preponderance of men in the applications received to date. Some of the reasons involve problems they hope to overcome.

Easy to Qualify

One is the idea that the work will require previous mechanical training. Pointing out that there is a natural prejudice at first in almost any group person against trying a completely new kind of work, they believe many of the women who eventually will be working at the war plant are "holding back" now because they fear they might not be able to make good as factory employes.

By making it clear that knitting and sewing are excellent training for the type of work to be done at the plant, because both involve finger dexterity, company officials hope to convince women throughout Marion and nearby counties that if they are in reasonably good physical condition they will have no difficulty holding down a job at the factory. They emphasize this by explaining that one day's training is all that is required to prepare an inexperienced worker to take an assembly line job at the plant.

> ### WOMEN HIRED AS CHAUFFEURS
> In line with its policy of employing women for many jobs ordinarily handled by men, the U. S. Rubber Co. is using women chauffeurs to operate its motor pool. Their driving is confined to autos and station wagons.

Another wrong impression the company hopes to overcome is that there are already more applicants than jobs to be filled. Despite the 8,000 applications already received, officials declare they are in urgent need of thousands of more applications—many thousands more. They expect to be seeking applicants for months to come.

Hoping to draw their employes as largely as possible from the Marion area as a means of simplifying housing and transportation problems company officials want many Marion women who hadn't previously given serious thought to the possibility of factory work to give it serious thought now. They hope that day nursery schools can be provided in the near future to care for children while their mothers are at the war plant. This, they believe, would bring in hundreds of applications from women who now feel they can't think of taking a job because of small children requiring almost constant care.

There are many jobs for both men and women to be filled. Age and previous experience don't matter much so far as qualifications are concerned—reasonably good health and a willingness to work are virtually the only requirements.

The company has completed its setup for handling job applications. You may get an application blank either by visiting the employment office at the ordnance plant administration area or by mailing a request for an application blank to the U. S. Rubber Co. at the Scioto Ordnance Plant.

You may visit the employment office at the ordnance plant without getting a pass or any other credentials. If you wish to fill out an application blank while you are there, a receptionist will

Rickenbacker Had Never a Doubt of Rescue from Sea

PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 23 — Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, survivor of many close brushes with death, never doubted for a moment during his three weeks on a tiny rubber raft in the South Pacific that he and his companions would be rescued.

The American flying ace of the first World war cited his own religion as his abiding hope during the days of ordeal after the big Army plane in which he was flying on an inspection trip for the secretary of war went down for lack of fuel Oct. 21.

"I hold to the golden rule and I believe most firmly that if a man just follows what he truly knows and feels in his heart, then he can not go wrong, and is possessed of religion enough to get by in any man's land," said the 52-year-old Rickenbacker, who has survived the perils of auto racing, downed 21 enemy planes in aerial combat, and was badly hurt in the crackup of an airliner.

The tale of the rescue of Rickenbacker and six of his seven companions—one of them died and was buried at sea—was brought to Pearl Harbor from an atoll somewhere in the South Pacific, where the rescued men were first brought to safety and hospitalized. It was a tale of suffering, of rain squalls, and of starvation staved off with the help of raw fish and seagull.

All Hospitalized

Official advices said all the survivors who were hospitalized are recovering.

The eight men took to three rubber rafts after the plane touched the water. From then on they were lost to the world until

Nazis Lose 28,000 Men In Smashing Red Drive

Thousands of Others in Rout As Russians Surge Out from Stalingrad in Two Directions.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Nov. 23—A mighty Red Army counter-offensive sprung from the northwest and south of Stalingrad has put thousands of Germans to rout, the Russians reported today, and the Nazi forces which have besieged the Volga city vainly for three bloody months were pictured as facing disastrous encirclement.

Broken German divisions were declared fleeing across the frosty steppes before the surge of Russian infantrymen, guns and tanks in the greatest Soviet offensive of the year, adding new casualties to the 28,000 Nazis reported killed and captured in the past few days.

Here is the story of the drive, as given in official Soviet announcements and in warfront dispatches.

Already some 15,000 Germans have been killed and more than 13,000 captured since the Russians sprang their drive. The German besiegers of Stalingrad have been placed in a perilous position, and the German forces in the Caucasus are being held to a standstill as the bitter Russian winter sets in.

The Stalingrad offensive stretched two arms around the Germans still holding positions in Stalingrad and placed the Russians astride two important railway lines used by the Germans to supply these forces.

The offensive began, dispatches said, with a one-hour artillery barrage so intense that when the firing ceased only isolated enemy guns replied. Red army infantry and tanks then piled through the German front line, driving the enemy from trenches into the open steppes.

Front Line Overwhelmed

The German front line was overwhelmed by the ferocity of the Russian offensive, dispatches said. Prisoners started to pour in and guns and mortars piled up as the Red army carried the advance as far as 15 miles at some points.

Pravda gave this summary of the fight for the city:

"Battles unparalleled in world history have been raging for almost three months in the Stalingrad area.

"The enemy hurled against Stalingrad dozens of his picked divisions, thousands of tanks and airplanes.

"The Hitlerite bandits schemed to crush Stalingrad with tanks. However, in the course of two months of fighting they lost 800 panzer machines at the city walls.

"The Germans intended to clear their way into Stalingrad with bombs. However, in the course of two months, they lost in the Volga steppes more than 1,000 planes.

"The Germans attempted by the force of their divisions to sink Stalingrad's defenders in the Volga. But in the course of two months they buried over 100,000 of their officers and men.

"It was not without reason that German non-commissioned officer Erich Mueller, killed northwest of Stalingrad, put down in his diary, 'The road to Stalingrad may be called the road of the dead.'

"Stalingrad's defenders have fought with firm conviction that they would not hold the city but would drive the Hitlerite hordes away from the Volga as well.

Stalin's Word Comes True

"In his order of the day Nov. 7, People's Defense Commissar Stalin stated that the day was not distant when the enemy would feel the might of fresh blows of the Red army. Now the Hitlerite hordes feel the weight of the first fresh blows . . ."

"During the night of Nov. 22-23 our troops in the Stalingrad area continued to carry out successful operations and continued to move forward," the mid-day Russian communique said.

In a special communique issued last night the Russians announced a Red army force sweeping forward from northwest of Stalingrad had reached and occupied Kalach, 50 miles west of Stalingrad, while another column striking westward south of the city had occupied the railroad town of Abganerovo.

In aggressive motion on a wide stretch of the long front Russian troops were credited today with killing some 1,800 enemy soldiers within Stalingrad and on the Nalchik, Leningrad and northwestern fronts in addition to those slaughtered in the Stalingrad offensive.

JAPS MAKING LAST STAND ON BUNA BEACHES

American Airmen Keep Enemy Under Heavy Attack, Sink Destroyer.

By The Associated Press

GENERAL MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, Nov. 23—American and Australian airmen plunged into battle against the Japanese forces making a desperate last stand on the beaches of the Buna area of northeastern New Guinea yesterday and when the smoke cleared they had sunk one destroyer, destroyed 19 enemy planes and smashed two small landing boats in addition to giving Japanese ground troops a slashing strafing.

The Japanese were fighting back bitterly from their precarious positions on the coastal strip between Buna and Gona with every weapon at their command, but the allied noose was slowly drawing tight.

Destroyer Landing Troops

The destroyer, sunk by bombers, apparently was trying to land troops at Buna to aid the besieged Japanese forces there and official reports mentioned the possibility that troops may actually have been landed before the sinking.

However, a spokesman at headquarters said the destroyer was not operating with four other Japanese destroyers believed to have been sent to reinforce the Buna garrison.

Moving in after the allied fliers had subjected Japanese ground positions to a terrific pounding, American and Australian troops captured a new landing strip at Buna.

Other allied forces were reported attacking the Buna mission, one mile from Buna and the main landing field on the outskirts of the village.

Australians Advance

The Australians, after attacking Japanese positions at Gona, 12 miles up the coast from Buna, furiously for several days, are believed to have advanced closer to their objective.

Twelve Japanese dive-bombers escorted by 20 Zero fighters appeared over the forward allied positions yesterday, but they were intercepted by allied planes and flew back to their bases leaving a number of smoking wrecks of planes behind.

Allied airmen wrecked 19 enemy planes yesterday with the loss only one American fighter.

DROP OUTDOOR YULE DECORATION PLANS

WPB Asks Merchants Not To Use Outside Lights.

In conformance with a request issued recently by the war production board, the retailers' group of the Chamber of Commerce has decided to dispense with outdoor lighting and street decorations this Christmas season.

The announcement was made today by Louis E. Michel, Chamber of Commerce secretary. Action was taken by the retailers group after receiving a request from the WPB, dated Nov. 7, asking city officials, civic clubs, chambers of commerce, merchants and citizens to discontinue outdoor decorative lighting.

At the same time, the Marion Reserve Power Co., sponsors of a home lighting contest each year, announced the contest would be abandoned this year in cooperation with a similar WPB request. The WPB request does not pertain, power company officials said, to indoor lighting either within the home or in stores.

WPB, in asking the cooperation of private organizations throughout the nation, estimated that 50,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity, enough to meet the lighting and power requirements of a city of [illegible] for one year, would be saved.

ORDER AFFECTS SCHOOL BUSES

ODT Directs All Ohio Schedules Reorganized by Feb. 1.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 23—All of Ohio's school bus schedules "must be completely reorganized" by Feb. 1 to comply with an office of defense transportation order, DePutt Woodford, state director of school transportation, said today.

Joseph B. Eastman, ODT director, warned in the order that unless new ODT regulations are placed into effect by local school authorities, gasoline and mileage allowances will not be made for buses.

The order stipulates that transportation shall be furnished only for students, teachers or other school employes who must walk two miles to their schools or a mile and a half to a school bus route.

"Under Ohio statutes," Woodford explained, "bus schedules are set up to transport persons who must walk one half mile to a bus route or one mile to their schools.

"All schedules in Ohio, therefore must be completely reorganized under the ODT regulations. The order calls for reorganization on a countywide basis. Hence, it will be necessary for local school boards, in which Ohio law places virtually complete authority, to cooperate within counties to draft plans meeting the ODT regulations."

The state department of education has scheduled five district meetings for school superintendents of counties, cities and exempted villages for the purpose of discussing the new regulations. These are to be held at Dayton Dec. 7; Columbus, Dec. 8; Athens, Dec. 11; Kent, Dec. 14; and Bowling Green, Dec. 15.

School officials in two Ohio counties, Jefferson and Crawford, previously had started local surveys in an effort to streamline their school transportation systems, said Woodford. There is a possibility, he said, that these might be altered to comply with the new order.

MRS. HENRY P. DRAKE HIT BY AUTOMOBILE

Suffers Serious Injuries; Now in City Hospital.

Mrs. Henry P. Drake of 335 North State street suffered serious injuries Saturday afternoon when she was struck by an automobile at West Center and Prospect streets.

The physician treating her at City hospital said at noon today she is suffering from shock and internal chest injuries, full extent of which has not been determined. He said the injuries are serious.

The car which struck her was driven by Mrs. Juanita Orsini of Olney avenue, who was traveling west on Center street, according to the police report.

Mrs. Drake had just started across Center street at the west side of the Prospect street intersection. She told her husband, a Marion real estate agent, that she didn't see a car coming when she started to cross the street.

According to the police, Mrs. Orsini had waited on a stop sign at the intersection and had started across Prospect street as the light was changing.

The M. E. Gunder & Sons ambulance took Mrs. Drake to the hospital.

LONDON HEARS ROMMEL MOVES TO TUNISIA

Battle Grows in Violence After Allies Make Test of Defenses.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 23 The British First army, with American and French support, was reported today to have launched a big attack against the German-Italian positions in the defense perimeter of Bizerte and Tunis, where Marshal Erwin Rommel, one-time German master of African-desert warfare, was said to be in command with perhaps a part of his Africa corps.

The [illegible] to allied-held Morocco said prisoners already had been brought in as a result of the British attack which the allies have been preparing for a week, and Berlin broadcasts hinted that Rommel had transferred his headquarters and perhaps some of his Libyan forces to Tunisia.

Previously the British and American forces which had streamed across North Africa for hundreds of miles in a race to get control of Tunisia's middle Mediterranean bases were reported to have tested the defenses in the northern tip of the French protectorate and the Morocco radio quoted an allied spokesman as saying their attacks were growing in violence.

The broadcast said that one clash occurred 22 miles south of the coast and that the engagement "remained indecisive."

Allied spokesmen were quoted as admitting that the Germans and Italians were well established with a strong air force at Bizerte and Tunis and it was apparent that the axis was going to make a fight to retain their dominance of the Sicilian straits.

Radio Announces Attack

"Allied forces have launched an attack against enemy armored forces entrenched around the towns of Tunis and Bizerte," said the Morocco radio announcement this morning.

"The main allied forces are being actively brought up to the front to attack the whole of the axis occupied positions. The first prisoners have been brought back to the rear."

French reports told of attempted axis infiltrations in South Tunisia and other reports from allied headquarters in North Africa said similar tactics were being attempted from the north, where the main axis forces have been landed by sea and air.

These suggested that Rommel, who more than once has foiled allied stratagems to trap him, was attempting a flank attack from Tripolitania against the British and American forces converging on the northern tip of Tunisia.

If Rommel has split his forces, it was presumed here that he had dispatched some armored units from Tripoli, either overland or by sea, to Gabes or Sfax on the East Tunisian coast.

Both lie south and southeast of the routes of the main allied forces driving eastward from Algeria, but pro-allied French forces have been reported in control along most of the coast, and, according to French North African broadcasts some British and American forces had joined these French allies.

A North African broadcast, purporting to quote a pro-allied French communique, said German infiltration units had been thrown out of the oasis of Gafsa west of Gabes, but other infiltrations were being attempted as far north as Kairouan, 75 miles south of Tunis.

Berlin's Excuses

The Berlin radio, in a consoling tone, thus referred to Rommel:

"With Tunisia, Rommel has exchanged a useless strip of desert for a battlezone akin to European conditions. Nothing proves more clearly Rommel's strategical genius than this move, carried out as soon as he realized the enemy's intentions.

"In this way the balance has shifted from east to west. Rommels' African corps now has

Rumors Still Thrive In U.S., Special Survey Shows

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 23— Rumors [illegible] to the enemy by confusing the public [illegible] are for the first time in the present war being made the subject of scientific study and analysis.

Pioneers in the study of [illegible] and [illegible] of false rumors are [illegible] Allport and Robert Knapp of Harvard university.

The American Institute of Public Opinion [illegible] half of the reported [illegible] the pattern [illegible].

[illegible] and [illegible] of [illegible] of baseless stories [illegible] the truth [illegible] to the [illegible].

Distortions of Truth

Those which [illegible] a grain of the truth are perhaps more harmful than the others, since they are more apt to be believed. [illegible] there is a tale reported to part of President Roosevelt's [illegible] on [illegible] at one plant [illegible] the proportion of women [illegible] of experiences relating to [illegible] that [illegible] frequently [illegible] of the great plant full of noises and machines, the first people to look up from their work were the men—and not the women."

The rumor reported from a [illegible] that [illegible] Hopkins has lost so much popularity that when he went into the war factories, the women didn't even bother to look up at him, but kept right on working."

Leon Henderson will probably be surprised to learn of the one [illegible] distortion of the fact that the metals used in making and trimming burial caskets are badly needed in the war effort.

In a Wisconsin town, Henderson [illegible] reported to have said, "All the undertakers have to do is wrap the body in a sheet and put it in the ground. That's sufficient."

Stories as ridiculous as the one about Henderson would be more amusing were it not for the fact that they are apparently believed by the more credulous.

Rumor Topics

Listed below are the subjects of the hundreds of rumors collected, with the relative frequency with which they were mentioned:

Anti-Roosevelt, 15 per cent, anti-Administration, 14 per cent, anti-[illegible] or industrial [illegible] and [illegible] 11 per cent, (armed forces) 1 per cent, Red Cross, 7 per cent, anti-British, 4 per cent, anti-[illegible] 6 per cent, Fifth column activity 6 per cent, unrevealed enemy activity, 5 per cent, anti-[illegible] 3 per cent, Labor, 1 per cent, [illegible] 1 per cent, all other 11 per cent.

President Roosevelt comes in for a considerable amount of attention. No rumors about him, however, have been so persistent as those concerning his health, although the White House physician and the President have constantly pointed to his amazing energy.

So it was that when he made his recent trip through the Northwest, people immediately ascribed it to a trip to the Mayo Brothers Clinic for health purposes.

Other rumors still more ridiculous about Roosevelt are that he is buying up a lot of caskets because he intends killing a lot of people in the country very soon; that he plans to distribute soon all of the world's gold to the American people, but meanwhile has it buried in the ground somewhere; that he got Wendell Willkie to oppose him in 1940 and paid all of his campaign expenses.

Red Cross Target

The Red Cross is unfortunately being victimized by a series of malicious rumors. From almost every state in the country have come reports that the Red Cross is profiteering on donated cigarets, blood, socks and sweaters.

One rumor about the Red Cross being passed around with solemnity in one section is as follows: "The Red Cross is accepting blood donations from Japanese, and such blood is mixed with that of American donors. Such a practice is terrible to contemplate because offspring of Americans receiving this blood stand a good chance of showing Japanese characteristics."

The Red Cross has had difficulty with a similar rumor concerning blood donated by Negroes.

The facts are, of course, that physicians will tell you that there is no scientific basis whatsoever for conclusions that mixture of plasma has any such effect. Meanwhile, however, blood donations are under Army and Navy orders identified and the plasma for marked groups is kept for use in aiding these groups.

Sectional Rumors

Another interesting fact revealed in the Institute study is that various rumors are particularly common in certain sections of the country. On the West Coast, war profiteering rumors are rife, in the South, rumors about the Negro, in the North Central sections, rumors about the Jews.

Some of the rumors are fantastic. From Pueblo, Colorado, which is remote from either coast, word came of this one: "Pueblo is the seventh city on the list for bombing and will get bombed in January 1943."

If another type of rumor were true, bakers and theaters along our coasts would be doing a tremendous business with German submarine personnel. From Maine to Florida sailors said to be captured from German submarines are reported to have in their possession bread baked in Boston, or Baltimore or Jacksonville, or theater ticket stubs from these cities.

A rumor with currency in New Hampshire is that Roosevelt put gasoline rationing into effect just to take revenge upon all of his Republican enemies.

While the government has asked the American public not to pass along rumors without checking them and not to pass along false rumors which might endanger public morale, evidence at hand would indicate that the public needs a great deal more education on this point.

AT NEW POST

Secretary of War Stimson has announced the appointment of Maj. Gen. Henry J. F. Miller (above) as commander of the Air Service Command of the Army Air forces in the European theater [illegible] Lieut. Gen. Carl Spaatz in Europe.

PUT LIMIT ON GAS HEATERS

Connection of Supplemental Equipment After Nov. 30 Prohibited.

A recent ruling of the war production board prohibiting the connection of radiant heaters, circulating heaters, and other gas fired supplemental heating equipment to the gas lines after Nov. 30 was announced today by Charles Secrest, local manager of the Ohio Fuel Gas Company.

For some months installation of gas fired central heating plants has been prohibited as well as the installation of small heaters required to furnish a majority of the heating used in a residence or business location. The new order offers further restrictions on small space heaters becoming effective on and after Nov. 30.

The company points out that the order places responsibility for adhering to the ruling upon the customer using the gas, the party connecting the appliance to the gas lines and the utility which renders the gas service. One or all of those involved in a violation are subject to the penalties provided by law. Because of this, The Gas company is interested in informing its many customers who may be affected so that inconveniences can be held to a minimum.

Limitations Specified

Interpreting the war production board's most recent order on these changes, the following are the limitations on connecting supplemental gas heating appliances to the company lines on and after November 30:

The new limitations do not affect the use of gas fired equipment already connected to the lines as long as it remains installed at the same address.

No additional gas-fired space heating equipment such as radiant heaters, conversion burners, etc., may be connected to the lines. This includes new or used equipment which may be bought or is then owned but not connected.

No gas fired space heating equipment may be connected at a new address even though it was connected at an old address and still is in possession of the same owner.

No heating equipment not using gas on the date effective may be converted to the use of gas as a fuel or may such conversion equipment be connected at a new address.

Rules on Replacements

Replacements of gas-fired heating equipment are permitted only when the equipment is of the same type at the same address and that the new installation is of the same or less capacity as the equipment replaced. (Gas furnace may not replace gas fired boiler, radiant heaters may not replace circulating gas heater, etc., even though the capacity is not increased.)

Owners of rental property who own gas-fired space heaters connected to the gas lines on the property may permit new tenants to use the equipment as part of the rented property. If the rental property is not so equipped, the new tenant is not permitted to connect his gas fired space heaters.

The Gas company has pledged full cooperation to the War Production Board and solicits the cooperation of the customers in complying with the new limitation, Mr. Secrest said.

Thanksgiving time

Thanksgiving Day finds us with many things for which to be thankful. Yes, we are still living in a democracy. True there are a number of habits of previous years on which there are restrictions but when a country is fighting for its existence, everyone must expect limitations in all matters which directly or indirectly concern the war.

New Government Order Further Restricts Installation of Space Heaters to Natural Gas Customers

Every gas customer, owner of rental property, plumber and dealer in gas appliances should read this message which is our interpretation of further recent limitations in War Production Board Order L-31, affecting changes in permission to connect gas-fired space heating equipment using natural gas. Those most affected are customers who contemplate adding to their gas-fired equipment or who are changing address. Since any customer sometime may be in one of these positions, we ask that you keep this message for future reference.

War Production Board limitations governing present gas service and sale of gas appliances may be learned by contacting our office. They were published over our signature in most newspapers the week of September 6th. The added limitations become effective on and after November 30, 1942. Responsibility for adhering to the new limitations is placed upon the customer using the gas, the party installing the equipment and ourselves, who provide the gas service. Any one or all of those involved in a violation are subject to penalties provided by law. Having promised cooperation to the War Production Board, we earnestly request our customers not to ask us to violate the government limitations.

On and after November 30, 1942, the following additional limitations are effective:

The new limitations do not affect the use of gas-fired equipment already connected to the lines as long as it remains installed at the same address.

No additional gas-fired space heating equipment—such as radiant heaters, conversion burners, etc.—may be connected to the lines. This includes new or used equipment which may be bought or is then owned but not connected.

No gas-fired space heating equipment may be connected at a new address even though it was connected at an old address and still is in possession of the same owner.

No heating equipment not using gas on the date effective may be converted to the use of gas as a fuel or may such conversion equipment be connected at a new address.

Replacements of gas-fired heating equipment with other gas-fired heating equipment are permitted only when the equipment is of the same type, at the same address and that the new installation is of the same or less capacity as the equipment replaced. (Gas furnace may not replace gas-fired boiler, radiant heaters may not replace circulating gas heater, etc. even though the capacity is not increased.)

Owners of rental property who own gas-fired space heaters connected to the gas lines on the property may permit new tenants to use the equipment as part of the rented property. If the rental property is not so equipped, the new tenant is not permitted to connect his gas-fired space heaters.

Obviously, the above limitations will cause some inconvenience and disappointments after they become effective on November 30th. Those moving should keep the new limitations in mind when selecting a new address for their residence or business.

Coffee Rationing Questions Answered

[illegible] Associated Press

[illegible] Nov. 23—Curious [illegible] rationing" [illegible] curiosity, the [illegible] information issued [illegible] question-and-answer [illegible]

[illegible] the cause of this [illegible]

[illegible] are three causes, all [illegible] shortage of shipping [illegible]. Ships that formerly [illegible] coffee from Brazil, Co[illegible] other South Ameri[illegible], are now carrying [illegible] supplies to our [illegible]. Many ships in the South [illegible] trade have been sunk. [illegible] Other ships, which formerly carried coffee to United States ports, are now carrying cargo for the American armed forces and the munitions of war, like beaxite, nitrates, copper, and other vital supplies produced in South America.

Q. You state that our coffee supply is down about one-third. Yet OPA says that the present rationing regulations is one pound per adult coffee drinker for five weeks, or a cup a day. Most people I know who drink coffee, drink two cups a day or more. The rationing regulations seem to contemplate a cut of 50 per cent or more and not one-third.

A. Two cups a day may be high. However, supply of coffee in the United States and the rate of importation are not the only factors determining how it shall be rationed during the first rationing period—in this case, five weeks. During the past few months, the war production board took the first steps to spread the available coffee supply evenly by limiting the amount of coffee wholesalers could sell and large retailers could buy. The limitation was fixed at 75 per cent of what was sold last year and was later reduced to 65 per cent. This left it up to the retailer to apportion his stocks among his customers. But many unpatriotic citizens started to stock up on coffee, buying more than their fair share. In some cases, store coffee shelves were swept clean, leaving none for others to buy. Unknown supplies of coffee now lie in homes of hoarders, and as rationing starts, this fact must be kept in mind.

Q. Do you mean by that that our ration may be larger later on?

A. That is quite possible, although it is by no means certain. The OPA, however, recognizes the possibility in retailers' bulletin No. 5, which explains to retail merchants how they shall conduct their part of the coffee rationing. The Bulletin says: "The length of the future ration periods may vary. You will be notified in advance of any change." It might be said that the future rations of coffee will depend upon the fortunes of war, which very few of us can foresee.

Q. Is the coffee rationing plan difficult?

A. The coffee rationg plan is extremely simple for both merchants and the consuming public. If you know how sugar goes over the counter, you will have no difficulty understanding how coffee is rationed. Under present plan, which becomes effective at 12:01 a. m. Nov. 29, coffee rationing is just like sugar rationing. In fact, you use your sugar book, war ration book No. 1, as your coffee book.

Q. How is that done?

A. If you will get your sugar book and open it, you will see how it is done immediately. You will note that there were 28 stamps in the book, and that eight or nine have been torn out to cover your sugar purchases. They were torn out from No. 1 in the right-hand corner on up to nine or ten. That leaves 18 or 19 stamps intact. Now OPA has designated the nine stamps on the right, down to and including stamp No. 20, as coffee stamps.

Q. Does that mean the grocer tears out a sugar stamp for a pound of coffee?

A. That's right, and the first stamp to be torn out is to cover the five weeks' period after Nov. 29.

Q. Does that mean each stamp beginning with No. 27 and down (including No. 28) to and including stamp No. 20, is good for one pound in five weeks?

A. Not necessarily. It is true that each stamp will be good for one pound. However, the period covered by successive stamps may not be five weeks. It may be four or six weeks, depending on the situation at the time.

Q. Does a consumer have to register to get coffee?

A. No.

Q. Does the present use of the sugar ration book oblige hoarders of coffee to state the amount they have?

A. No, it does not, but the regulation instructs consumers having surplus coffee on hand to forego purchases until all of it is used up at the rationed rate.

Q. Who is eligible to get a pound in five weeks?

A. All adults in each family unit.

Q. How is an adult defined?

A. If you will look again the inside pages of your sugar book, you will see that in the upper right-hand corner your age is written down. If any book shows an age of 14 years or less, then the owner of the book cannot get coffee.

Q. But suppose one has reached the age of 15 since the sugar book was taken out. Can that person get coffee now, one pound in five weeks?

A. No. Coffee, for the time being, is not rationed to the persons whose ages show on the sugar books as being "14 years or less."

Q. Will that be adjusted later for those who have grown older since the sugar books were issued?

A. No plan for such adjustment has yet been announced.

Q. Will the hoarders ever be required to account for their hoarded coffee?

A. Yes, it will be just like it was with sugar. War ration book No. 2, the first of three-all-purpose ration books, will be issued about the first of the year. When application is made for war ration book No. 2, the applicant will be required to state how much surplus coffee he had in the home at the beginning of coffee rationing. Stamps will then be torn from his book to cover the amount.

Q. What if someone misrepresents the situation in his statement?

A. Then he is committing a felony and subject to penalties provided in the federal statutes.

Q. Why are retail merchants forbidden to sell coffee to consumers during this week from midnight, last Saturday, Nov. 21, and midnight, Saturday, Nov. 28?

A. To give them an opportunity to replenish their depleted stocks, so that people can start out on Nov. 29 getting their rationed coffee with a minimum of inconvenience.

Q. How will persons, who have no sugar books because they certified in the sugar registration that they had a surplus supply of sugar, get coffee rations?

A. All they need to do is to go to their local war price and rationing boards and register and obtain a sugar book. The boards have instructions how these books can now be issued.

Q. There are various instant coffee preparations, like coffee concentrates, soluble coffee, liquid coffee extracts, made in whole or in part from coffee. Are these rationed?

A. No, they are not.

Q. What about coffee mixtures, where part of the coffee is ingredients like chicory, cereal, chick-pea or other substances?

A. Such products containing coffee are rationed, pound by pound, just like pure coffee.

Q. Many people during the coffee shortage have been buying green coffee and roasting it in the home. Can they continue to do that?

A. No. The sale of green coffee to consumers is prohibited.

Christmas Candy, Magazines Among Canteen's Needs

Organizations of the city will have the opportunity of helping to make Christmas a happy occasion for soldiers passing through Marion on Christmas day by co-operating with the women's service canteen at the Union depot in filling Christmas bags with candy and nuts.

Workers at the canteen feel that it will seem a bit more "Christmasy" if the baskets hold something extra in the way of holiday cheer. "We have 700 transparent bags which we hope organizations will ask for and fill with greetings, candy and nuts," Mrs. Eugene Willey, head of the canteen service, said today. The bags may be tied with holiday ribbons and tags to add a festive touch.

An urgent need right now is magazines, Mrs. Willey said. There is a clamor for reading material when the trains go through and all the magazines we have are taken in a hurry, she states. A club brought in a generous supply recently but they were all taken before the day was over.

Army Suggested As Cure for Stomach Ache

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY—Among other reasons for joining the army.

Stomach aches.

For, declares Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, professor of medicine at the Mayo Foundation of the University of Minnesota, army routine may cure many stomach ailments.

"The high-strung, intensely ambitious man who may have been driving himself to ulcers in his business," he suggests, "may find military life a haven of peace.

"Others will do the planning for him. He'll relax, forget his personal schemes, and presently find that army chow goes through his food canal without so much as a whimper, much less a growl."

LEGION GROUP GUESTS OF CALEDONIA PYTHIANS

75 Persons Attend Rabbit Supper in Lodge Hall.

Seventy-five members and guests attended the annual rabbit supper given Saturday night by Caledonia Lodge No. 116, Knights of Pythias, in the lodge hall. Families of lodge members and the men of Caledonia Post No. 401, American Legion, and their families were guests. Flags and lighted candles decorated the table.

In a talk after dinner Glen Allen, past commander of the post, told the group the best way to show patriotism is to back the men at the front with every possible effort. He said that criticism in time of war is all right if it is constructive criticism and not an individual's idle observation "just to be saying something."

Remarks were made by Mrs. Wade Blayney, president of the post auxiliary, F. E. Underwood and Marion Grace, commander of the post.

Fred P. Haas, past commander of the post, led the group in reciting the preamble to the Legion Constitution. John Fred, chairman of the lodge program committee, presided and introduced the speakers. The lodge committee, Clarence Roy Kennel, Underwood and F. E. Underwood, was assisted by the women of the Pythian Sisters lodge.

Card Mailed in 1906 Delivered Year Too Late

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE — A postman walked into the drug store of Dr. Samuel Y. Harris, 75, and asked:

"Anybody here by the name of C. E. Noland?"

Dr. Harris said there used to be, but Noland died last December. The postman had a postal card for Noland.

Dr. Harris took it, recognized it as one he had sent in 1906 from Atlantic City to his clerk, Noland. The card pictures a bathing beauty of the "gay nineties" vintage.

The card bore a Baltimore date stamp of the same day it was mailed from Atlantic City.

Skip $15 Bonds Rather Than Miss Big Game

Two drivers bound for the Ohio State-Michigan football game forfeited $15 bonds rather than miss the game by returning back here for hearings on speeding charges.

Saturday morning the state patrol arrested T. Spencer, 34, of Toledo, and Thomas Spencer, 29, of Ann Arbor, Mich., for speeding on Route 23 north of Marion. They were southbound, headed for Columbus and the game. Each posted $15 bond for appearance in Marion municipal court in the afternoon.

He is just sleeping. And sleeping a little more soundly, perhaps, because there are still many Americans who are not putting at least 10% of their pay into War Bonds on a regular Payroll Savings Plans. How about you joining a lot of other fellows in giving the little paperhanger a rude awakening? How about you signing up with a Payroll Savings Plan today . . . to the tune of not 6%, or 7%, or 8%, but 10% and more if you can? LET'S TOP THAT 10% BY NEW YEAR'S.

What You Should Do:

If you are . . .

1. Already investing 10% of your pay in War Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan — boost that 10% if you can.
2. Working in a plant where the Plan is installed but haven't signed up yet—sign up tomorrow.
3. Working in a plant where the Payroll Savings Plan hasn't been installed, talk to your union head, foreman, or plant manager—and see if it can't be installed right away. The local banks will be glad to help.
4. Unable to get in on the Payroll Savings Plan for any reason, go to your local bank, or wherever Bonds are sold. They will be glad to help you start a plan of your own.

More United Than Before

ONE result of the intensified African campaign that deserves more attention than it has been getting is the effect of common effort on the morale of the United Nations.

The Russians are being encouraged by their political leaders to believe that the African campaign constitutes some of the relief they were promised.

The British were quick to suggest that critics who had been heckling them for failure to win victories should acknowledge that the rout of Rommel's army had proved there was nothing wrong with their fighting spirit.

The French and Greeks and other disinherited nationalities who fought side by side with the British and Americans in Africa felt a sense of common purpose that was impossible as long as the United States, their ally, had not shared danger on the battlefield with them.

Certainly in the United States, the beginning of offensive action against Germany by American forces gratified a desire for positive effort that participation in bombing raids based on England had not gratified previously. At last the United Nations were assembled, fighting shoulder to shoulder, moving forward in one group against the enemy, instead of retreating in many directions before his onslaught.

The United Nations have no unity other than their sharing in a common effort to thwart the Axis. Wishful thinking to the contrary notwithstanding, they are not held together by any ideology, other than confidence in their ability to defeat Germany, Japan, Italy and their satellites and thereby to gain the privilege of organizing a better international society than Hitlerism could build on its rotten principles. Growing evidence that their confidence has not been misplaced has helped their unity more than a year of oratory and good intentions.

An Apple for the Teacher

TWICE, school teachers have performed a hard job for government without pay and without needing to apologize for their performance.

The thought must have occurred to many persons getting their gasoline ration books that school teachers, though not usually thought of as part of the government, fill a governmental role by virtue of their position in the community.

Certainly on the two occasions when they have been called on to represent the authority of government their performance has revealed them to be the natural possessors of the poise and know-how indispensable in handling the public.

It is hard to see how gasoline and sugar rationing could have been handled without their services. They must be counted as one of the nation's most valuable assets for the trials of wartime. Apparently there is nothing they can't do well, from taking care of the children to taking care of their parents.

Switching to the Defensive

WHILE the layman easily grasps the advantage of being on the offensive against Germany, it is more difficult to comprehend that many of the same advantages have been won by the budding offensive against Japan.

While it continues to be true that what is happening in the Solomons and New Guinea is a counter-attack, rather than a bona fide offensive, the fact is that Japan has been given reason to doubt that it can afford to hold on. Its forces are almost wholly on the defensive; the threat of new thrusts into territory vital to the United States and Australia has been virtually removed.

The Japanese radio, in fact, has voiced surprise at the vigor of the Allied fighting, which suggests to the Japanese that the other side must think it can win the war at these outposts. That may be exactly what the other side does think. If Japan can be bled from relentless attacks on the almost innumerable outposts it has committed itself to defend, the final attack on the Japanese islands would be an anticlimax.

It remains to be seen whether Japan will be able to launch a new offensive to offset this disadvantage. A mass attack on Pearl Harbor, or an attempt to invade North America must be viewed as probable. If the attacks do not materialize, or if they do materialize and fail to accomplish a major diversion, Japan will pay the maximum price for empire—the necessity of defending it against an enemy capable of striking without warning at any point.

RAYMOND FIGURES IT OUT.

Raymond Leismann wins the barbed wire shaving mug this week for his description of the telephone system around Watson. Raymond says the lines run along on top of the fences. If you can't get through to your party, call the nearest subscriber on the party line and ask him to shut his gate so the circuit will be connected. Then proceed with the next neighbor if still unable to get through.—Charley Cox, in Atchison County Mail.

EASILY ANSWERED.

A citizen observer asks whether all the 2,500,000 government jobholders are necessary. This is a fine example of a purely rhetorical question.—Kansas City Star.

News Behind the News

Senate Filibuster Regarded as More a Political Battle Than Anything Else.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—From the galleries, the senate filibuster may have appeared to some as a great struggle over the voting rights of the Negro minority, but on the floor, where the participating senators stood, it fell far short of that.

Many senators recognized the maneuvering as politics, and little else. No more than 60-odd senators were present the first six days, which means about 36 were not sufficiently interested to attend the spectacle.

Even those who gave lip-service to Democratic Floor Leader Barkley's cause against the poll tax restrictions of eight southern states, knew in their hearts that probably not a single Negro in those states would ever vote as a result of this bill, if it passed.

They just supported Barkley without enthusiasm, mainly be- without enthusiasm, mainly because certain Negro organizations in the north wanted the legislation, and, therefore, it was a wise thing for them politically to follow along.

In the first place, everyone knows the southern states have other laws (the Texas primary laws) and other restrictions (educational qualifications) which can be used to keep Negroes away from the Democratic primaries more effectively than the $1 or $1.50 poll tax.

But even beyond those laws and restrictions, (which this bill did not propose to touch) the bill itself was a federal directive against a state tax levied by state legislatures, and therefore of undetermined, if not doubtful constitutional validity.

Senators could see, for this reason, that passage of the bill would just make another court case. Any state could rebel and sue.

Thus the whole show was considerably less vital to Negro voting than the tumult and shouting may have led the casual news reader to believe.

Really Bitter

This does not mean the southern Democratic filibusters were not bitter and angry. Typically, Senator McKellar called Barkley a "skunk" and meant it.

Others professed to see the Democratic party riding two horses going in opposite directions, with the obvious results of such a disaster unavoidable in the future.

The southerners talked of getting a new party and a new senate leader (one actually wanted to elect the Republican Leader McNary, on the ground that he represented true Democratic principles more adequately than Barkley).

The southerners preferred to believe the rumor that the only reason they were faced with this bill was because Mr. Roosevelt had promised CIO's Phil Murray to bring it forward, and thus aid the CIO drive to organize Negro workers.

They rejected the similarly unconfirmed rumor that Mr. Roosevelt was dismayed at the spectacle and was getting his best political mechanic, the economic stabilizer Jimmy Byrnes, to stabilize the riot in the senate.

But there will be no new party and no new leader. No one really believed Barkley was doing anything but acting on orders. Furthermore, there were no important bills, not even a war bill, ready for senate consideration, except one about silver coins.

The time had been well chosen for staging a contest which will certainly do no personal political harm to northern Democrats in their large Negro-voting home communities, or, in fact, to the southern Democrats in their white-voting home districts.

Party unity and working harmony, however, will no doubt suffer. Scars left by the fight will be added to welts raised on the same subject by other administration acts, and no doubt will be reopened from time to time hereafter, until the Democratic presidential nomination is made in 1944.

Some States To Act

As for the real issue of Negro voting in the south, no solution appears imminent through any legislation.

One of the eight states, Tennessee, is about to repeal its poll tax restriction. Around the senate, they say—whether true or not—that this is because the Crump machine in Memphis is getting tired of paying the $1 or $1.50 for all the Negroes it votes each election day, and that it is espousing repeal as an economy measure to cut campaign expenditures.

In all the debate, it has become clear that southern states are willing to repeal, but do not want the federal government assuming their power to do so.

A direct way in which Barkley and the administration could have avoided this anti-states rights legislation, and the fight and filibuster, as well, would have been to pass a resolution "requesting" the state legislatures to repeal the poll tax.

Such an expression of the sentiment of congress would certainly have promoted repeal faster than the pending assumption of federal power. Strangely, that peaceful method never occurred to anyone.

The whole spectacle adds further weight to the suggestion that both white and Negro leadership of Negro problems be taken out of the hands of politicians and assumed by educators, social and economic leaders, who can get something constructive accomplished—perhaps even the dollar and the education for each Negro to permit him to vote.

Congresswoman Luce

She May Write a Play About Washington.

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—Clare Boothe Luce is coming to congress and although I have no penchant for flippancy, I'm tempted to add: hey-hey.

Capitol Hill has been short on glamor long enough.

Some years ago when I was doing a stint on Broadway, I had the pleasure of interviewing Mrs. Luce (or just plain Clare Boothe, as she was known in those days, although she already had acquired and dropped the married name of Brokaw). She has beauty, charm, chic, a sharp wit and a gouging pen. Mrs. Luce would be a welcome addition to any congress.

But I have a hunch that congress is going to enjoy Mrs. Luce a lot more than she is going to enjoy congress.

According to The Associated Press reports following her election, Mrs. Luce said: "This election proves how the American people want to fight the war. They want to fight a hard war, not a soft one, efficiently and without bungling."

Called "Rubber Stamp"

In her campaign speeches, according to the same report, she frequently referred to her opponent as "one of the rubber stamps in congress who are bungling the war."

That kind of campaign and election night talk has a familiar ring. It reminds me of some of the things ex-Re. Bruce Barton said, including that one about how he wanted to come to Washington "to repeal a law a day." Mrs. Luce would do well to have a little chat with Mr. Barton before she comes down in January. He might explain how he didn't repeal even one law—and why.

Freshman congressmen (and women) have a way of getting lost in the shuffle on Capitol Hill. It hasn't anything to do with ability or even with what party one belongs to and not at all with how independently one votes. It's just the system, built up by 150 years of tradition.

It may be good; it may be bad; but there it is—and if Mrs. Luce beats it, she'll be the first in a long time.

Expects a Play

How Mrs. Luce votes or whether she makes a great name as "the congresswoman from Connecticut" in the next two years isn't nearly as important to me as something else. If she doesn't turn her Washington experience into a play, I'm going to write some constituents around Greenwich in 1944.

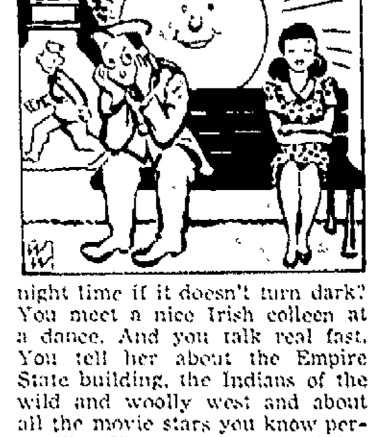
In "The Women," she took down the hair of the Park Avenue Renorunners. In "Kiss the Boys Goodby," she took the socks off Hollywood and their search for a Scarlett O'Hara. In "Margin for Error," she wrote the bitterest diatribe against Nazi brutality that has come out of this war.

As "Congresswoman from Connecticut," Mrs. Luce will have the kind of ringside seat that probably no playwright worthy of the name ever had. If she'll match her other plays with one on the Washington "comedy of errors," she will deserve a life membership in that great American institution, the congress of the United States.

Too Much Light

By The Associated Press

LONDON — Britain's double daylight saving time has seriously interfered with the love affair of United States troops in England and Northern Ireland. It doesn't get dark until about 10:45 p. m.—dark enough, that is, to give cupid the go ahead signal—so listen to the complaint of Sgt. G. K. Hodenfield. "What good is night time if it doesn't turn dark? You meet a nice Irish colleen at a dance. And you talk real fast. You tell her about the Empire State building, the Indians of the wild and woolly west and about all the movie stars you know personally. Then you start walking a 'wee bit up the road' with her. And there's nothing sillier than trying to whisper sweet nothings in her ear when a guy two blocks away can read your lips."



I'M STAYING UP TO WATCH THE FUN!

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Wednesday, Nov. 23, 1932.

The C., D. & M. Electric company asked the state utilities commission for permission to abandon its Marion, Delaware, Columbus interurban line. The line had been operated since 1903 but as a result of a decline in business was losing more than $3,000 a month, the company's application stated. A hearing on the request was set for Jan. 5.

President Hoover declared himself firmly opposed to a suspension of Dec. 15 payments due on war debts and recommended that congress create "an agency to exchange views" with debtor nations regarding international financial obligations.

Mrs. Leone D. Thomas of Springfield assumed new duties as executive secretary of the Marion County Red Cross chapter, succeeding Miss Margaret Dowd.

Mrs. George Kiehl of Windsor street entertained for the pleasure of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Fletcher of Rochester, N. Y.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, Nov. 23, 1922.

More drastic punishment for persons who refused to appear before the federal commission investigating the coal industry was urged by President Harding in a conference with Senator Borah.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. William Briggs of Fies avenue.

Christmas savings club deposits of Marion's four banks were reported to approximately $100,000. Checks were to be distributed shortly after the first of the month.

The Marion City Teachers association presented a series of dramatic sketches at Central Junior High school in a program honoring Miss Elizabeth Ruehrmund and Miss Abigail Gast, both of whom had taught for more than 50 years. The committee in charge of arrangements included R. A. Garvin, chairman, Miss Corrine Rosebrook and Wilson R. Dumble.

Members of the Embroidery club entertained their husbands at dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Wright on Girard avenue.

Mrs. R. T. Morgan and Mrs. C. G. Weston were hostesses to the Child Conservation League at the Morgan home on Girard avenue.

This Week in the Sky

(Prepared especially for this page by the Hayden Planetarium of the American Museum of Natural History in New York City.)

During this week, if the weather is clear, we shall have crisp moonlit nights, for this is the week between full moon which occurred on Sunday, the 22nd and the last quarter which comes a week from tonight, (Monday, the 23rd).

At the full, the moon rises in the east as the sun sets in the west. Observers on the desert have often remarked the beautiful effect of seeing the moon come up as the sun goes down. Dwellers on high floors of city apartments might also be able to see the same fine sight, with their unobstructed view of the horizon.

Each night the moon rises approximately 50 minutes later than it did the night before, so by the end of this week the early evening will be in darkness, with the moon rising around the middle of the night.

Yerba Mate for Tea

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO,—With war interfering with tea imports, the Retail Grocers Advocate has directed merchants' attention to yerba mate, widely drunk in South America and available from that source. Mate consists of dried leaves which are steeped like tea, and already has a limited market in the United States.

Insult Added To Injury

Germans Desert Italian Allies in Libya.

DESERTION of Italian troops by their arrogant German allies in Libya when the going got rough will add to Italy's reluctance to fight Hitler's battles. Italians are being warned by their Fascist leaders at the same time that their country's peril never was greater.

It is safe to assume that success in Africa would be followed quickly by Allied invasion of Europe through Italy and other Mediterranean entrances to the continent. This would put the issue of remaining in the war squarely up to Italian soldiers, sailors and aviators. Their will to fight for Hitlerism is questionable.

Italy waited to declare war on France till the French army was on the point of collapse — the "stab in the back." There was little fighting between French and Italian troops. Later in the summer of 1940 Italian forces moved against the British in Somaliland, but were repulsed in Anglo-Egyptian Sudan and Kenya.

In September, Graziani's Italian army moved from Libya into Egypt, only to be driven out in December and virtually destroyed by spring of 1941.

Rommel was sent by Hitler to stop the rout, and in 1941 drove the British back to Egypt. After this, the African war was a German show; Italians no longer were permitted to make decisions, nor even to fight alone. By the end of the rainy season in 1941, their defeat in Italian East Africa (Somaliland and Ethiopia) was complete.

On Oct. 28, 1940, Italy invaded Greece from Albania, which had been seized the preceding April. The Italian campaign stalled and was rescued by Germany the following spring, when Hitler's hordes swept through Yugoslavia, then Greece.

The Italian Navy, composed of lightly armored but fast ships, has suffered heavily at the hands of the British in the Mediterranean. It has been helped materially by Germany's air force, but Germany has been unable to send any warships into the Mediterranean. It is reported, however, that Germans now sail with the Italian Navy.

There have been many minor brushes between the Italian Navy and the British Mediterranean fleet and two major engagements. On Nov. 11-12, 1940, the British fleet bombarded the Italian Navy at its base in Taranto. The Italians did not come out to give battle and three battleships were seriously damaged. On March 28, 1941, Italy lost three cruisers and a battleship off Cape Matapan.

Biscuit Gun

By International News Service

RANDOLPH FIELD, Tex. — When an officer in a control tower at the West Point of the Air says "Please pass the biscuit," he doesn't mean one of those fluffy, golden morsels his mother used to bake. Instead, he is asking for the "biscuit gun," a hand-operated spotlight so named because of its shape.

Aviation cadets whose planes are on the ground during night flying are directed by the "biscuit's" white beam as they taxi to or from takeoff position. The color of the light may be changed to green for "Go ahead," or to red for "Stop." Directly pointed at a plane, the "biscuit" provides a directive that no person in the cockpit can miss.

The far-reaching rays of the "biscuit" also may be used for instructions to a plane whose radio is temporarily out.

Let's Be Awake

Japs Won't Let the War En out Trying To Invade Unite States Pacific Region.

By DAMON RUNYON

HERE is that guy Runyon again cry wolf, wolf about the Jap mena west coast of the United States, when th no Japs in sight out there except th internment camps, including Amer ones who were permitted to cast absen in the last election in west coast states.

I suppose if you keep your mind subject long enough you are apt to bit of a phobia about that particular. Maybe that is the way I am about the p ty of the Japs trying a belt at the w I have convinced myself, at least, are not going to continue their war small islands in the Pacific and never a major move of some sort against land.

But the real reason I keep harping topic is that I don't want our people to the newspaper headlines from day to cause them to lose sight of the import of World war II as far as the United St concerned. These headlines naturally the fresher phases of the gory busines day, subordinating the more familiar to the news sensations, as for instan week has seen Africa usurping the streamers.

BUT the important part of the w United States is in the Pacific. T the greatest threat to the safety of th There lies the possibility of an attemp vasion of these shores, which is extremely remote on the eastern s continent. The Japanese are our m able foe and will remain so until crushed.

The tenacity with which they are Kiska in the Aleutians indicates they toward an assault on the west coast by air. Although our flyers are dumping sands of tons of bombs on Kiska almost the Japs, once reported at upward of are said to be expanding their build ations in substantial concrete and ho for the winter.

Within a three hour flight, including and coming, from Kiska, we have set huge air base and our men are play almost continuous tune on the island has been demonstrated at Malta an places that bombing alone is not enough a strongly entrenched position of th When Kiska is taken, it will probably land assault, and a land assault is nearly a costly operation.

IF THE JAPS have only half the num ported on Kiska it would be a tough overcome by land assault. It is obvious they are able to move around despite th ings and continue elaborating the longer they stick there the more diff be the task of dislodging them. Certai are not hanging on there just for fun.

Of course Kiska may be the death them that some experts predict. T not be able to get supplies, what with cutting chunks out of Japan's shipp along. But their presence there on territory should keep our people remind the war with Japan is mighty cl Pacific coast.

"S'pose it is." Jed pulled the monthly Citrus magazine from the seat beside him. "An' here's somethin' oughta make yur eyes bung out." He watched her with a sly grin as she opened it to the marked place, and chuckled at her happy gasp.

"Pretty nice, eh? Picture o' th' fact'ry 'n' everything. Yur Pa's makin' a go of it looks like. Be pretty bad around here, the kinda crops we've had for the last two years, if t'weren't fer that orange juice fact'ry o' his'n." He lumbered out of the ancient car, spun the crank expertly and amid the thundering of the motor, waved goodbye.

Rita stood frowning down at the letter in her hand. It must be the one he'd been waiting for, worrying over. For one desperate instant she thought of taking it into the kitchen and steaming it open—but she couldn't do that to her father, even though he refused to discuss the mysterious correspondence.

She'd better rush it over to the plant. Maybe it would relieve him. Anyway, the magazine article would interest him. It looked like a good write-up of the struggling, pioneer orange juice concentrating industry. He'd have to stop his work long enough to read it—that much rest would be something.

Disaster on the Way

As she backed the station wagon out the driveway, the hiss of the spraying machine in the grove stopped, and the sprayer hailed her. She left the car and ran down between the rows of waxy-green orange trees to the spray truck, her sandaled feet dipping into the fresh-plowed earth.

"Tell your Dad the red spider's pretty thick this year. Givin' em a heavy dose." The man wiped sweat from his red face with his forearm, adding sardonically, "Proably wasting the spray though. A heat spell'll kill 'em anyway."

Sunlight sifted in gleaming shafts of gold over Rita's small straight figure as she said firmly, "We're not having a heat spell this year. Two years of them is enough."

Two years has been more than enough, she thought bitterly as she drove the station wagon along the winding valley road. How the valley had changed! The gently rolling hills were burned the color of dry straw. White dust raised in billows behind the car—grim reminder of the drouth that had lowered the water level in the valley's two wells to the danger point. If they had another early heat wave this year with no water to combat it—!

Why did all disaster seem to strike at once? Was it only eighteen months ago that the wire about her mother's illness had been delivered to her office in San Francisco? And as though her mother's illness and death weren't enough of a crushing blow, now her father must be plagued with two crop failures and a factory, started as a humane experiment, that seemed to be turning into a nightmare responsibility. She whirled the station wagon around the last curve and pulled up before the long, white sheds of the plant with angry speed.

The huge sorting room seemed dark after the brilliant California sunlight. Neighbor women, working at the sorting bins, greeted Rita with warm friendliness as she hurried along to the end of the building reserved for offices, and pushed open the door marked "President."

She stood for an instant tenderly watching her father, his white thatch of hair bent over his work, the lines of worry and thought cut deep in his forehead. Then she hurried to him to rumple his hair and chide him for forgetting to come home for lunch.

The Letter

Ralston patted her hand and grinned ruefully. Despite the white hair and telltale lines, his face was young when he smiled—as young as his eager, purposeful eyes. She dropped the magazine onto the desk. He glanced with deep interest at the article "3,000,000 gallons of concentrated juice shipped already—being distributed free from pharmaceutical house in Europe to children under 2 years," he murmured with deep satisfaction.

"I'd say you were doing your part for defense," Rita grinned, and then she casually handed him his letter. She noted his quick tense frown when he saw it, and the trembling of his hands as he tore it open. A moment later she wished violently she had lost the thing altogether, for as he read, the color drained from his face, blue veins showed in the clefts of his high temples. Rita ran for a glass of water and made him drink it.

He thanked her, then got heavily to his feet and went to look out of his office window down over the sunlit orange and lemon grove patchwork of his beloved valley.

Tears rose to Rita's eyes in a rebellious flood even as her fists clenched for control. She had fought constantly during these trying days and months to keep her quick, spontaneous laugh, her ready wit, holding on as a drowning man holds to the last floating spar, while a great tidal wave of hopelessness seemed about to sweep around her. She could stand it no longer. What was it that was stooping her father's straight shoulders, harrying his valiant spirit? She crossed to him to slip her hand in his.

"Look here, Rolly," her voice was low but steady. "I want to know what's in those mysterious New York letters of yours that upsets you so."

"Now don't you worry about—" her father began, but she cut him short.

"I do though," she retorted crisply. "Come on, Rolly—give. I'm too old to steam them open and peek — so I must be old enough to be told about them."

He smiled at this while his eyes somberly moved over her face. "Maybe you're right," he said thoughtfully. "But I've brought you into your plans — bringing you home from San Francisco and all. I didn't want to worry you."

"Don't you know a woman can stand anything but curiosity?"

Without a word Ralston handed her the letter.

GENERALS SWIM AS TWO SHIPS GO DOWN

They Make Shore Safely After Jap Attack.

By MURLIN SPENCER
AP War Correspondent

WITH ALLIED FORCES NEAR BUNA, NEW GUINEA, Nov. 19—(Delayed)—The officer at headquarters who writes the communiques used a half dozen words Wednesday to tell how Japanese bombers sank two allied trawlers off the Buna coastal area, but he didn't mention that two allied generals were aboard the trawlers and had to swim to shore.

One general watched the bombers swooping in for their attack and called for a rifle. He blazed away until he was forced to leave the sinking craft. The other also took the attack with fine disdain and remained at a commanding post.

Both officers had to swim nearly a half mile to shore with the men and both refused any help, insisting that others needed it more. The names are still a military secret.

During the ... of the attacks on the ... troops, as Robert Doyle of the Milwaukee Journal and I lay flat, hugging the shelter of a tree, we heard a soldier say over and over:

"Damn them — but we'll get them yet."

The soldier was Sgt. Fred Nishitsuji, an American son of Japanese descent from Los Angeles.

Weddings

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Mrs. Alma Grierson Mouch, former Marion resident, and Harry E. Heagren of Mt. Vernon on Oct 25 in First Presbyterian church at Maysville, Ky. Rev. Robert Von Thurn read the ceremony at 8 o'clock in the evening in the presence of close relatives of Mrs. Mouch.

Dr and Mrs. R. L. Grierson, brother and sister-in-law of Mrs Mouch, were best man and matron of honor.

For her marriage Mrs Mouch chose a two-piece victory blue crepe dress, with which she wore a black toque trimmed with blue feathers and a tiny veil. The front of the blouse was trimmed with braid and tiny blue buttons. She wore a double strand of pearls, a gift from her daughter, Miss Betty Ellen Mouch, and a shoulder corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs Grierson was dressed in a black crepe suit with black and white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Following the wedding a reception was given at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Grierson. When Mr and Mrs Heagren left on a week's trip to points of interest in the south Mrs Heagren wore a brown tailored suit with yellow and brown accessories.

Mr. and Mrs Heagren are at home at 304 North Division street in Mt. Vernon, where Mrs. Heagren operates the Caramelcrisp restaurant and Mr Heagren is associated with the Cooper Bessemer Co.

HEALTH SEALS MAILED TODAY

Million To Be Delivered To Residents of Marion County.

Delivery of a million penny Christmas seals started today throughout Marion city and county, under auspices of the Marion County Anti-Tuberculosis league.

The 1942 drive for funds to continue the local, state and national campaigns against tuberculosis is being headed locally by O. H. P. Snyder, principal of Harding High school.

All seals were not delivered today, pending receipt of additional seals from the state headquarters. By the end of this week all seals will have been mailed.

In explaining why there are no $1 amounts sent out this year, each letter contains at least $2 worth of seals, Mr. Snyder said the increase was made at the instance of the National Tuberculosis association and the Ohio public health service which set the Marion county goal at $3,000 this year, an increase of $500 over 1941.

The increase of tuberculosis which accompanies a war will mean an expenditure of many times the usual sum spent in the past few years. It is anticipated that the increase will start this year and extend for 10 years after the war.

Long hours of work, short lunch periods at noon, strain and stress of worry, all result in more tuberculosis cases.

"We are going to need a great many more X-ray examinations and skin tests in the next 10 years than we did after the first World war," Mr. Snyder said.

The chairman also urged an early return of money for seals purchased to relieve the holiday rush of work at the postoffice. Immediate response also will save the Marion County Anti-Tuberculosis league the extra expense of sending out follow-up cards.

Persons who cannot afford to purchase the entire $2 worth of seals are urged to purchase as many as possible and return the balance of the seals to the secretary, Mrs. W. F. Miley of 203 South Seffner avenue.

This year Mrs. Nellie Bahn of South State street will assist Mrs. Miley in tabulating the returns.

Three Killed, 20 Hurt As Rail Bridge Falls

By The Associated Press

VALODSTA, Ga., Nov. 23 — Three persons were killed and more than a score injured near here yesterday when the southbound Royal Palm passenger train crashed through a burning trestle spanning the shallow Withlacoochee river.

Those killed were R. H. Stevens, 52, railway mail clerk of Atlanta, J. W. McClellan, 58, of Little Ark. and Corporal Thomas G. Vest of Charlotte, N. C.

The train was enroute from Cincinnati to Florida over the Southern railway.

LED TASK FORCE

Rear Admiral W. A. Lee Jr., (above), of Owenton, Ky., led an American battleship task force which tangled with Jap units in the Solomons area Nov. 14 and sank five enemy ships.

RICKENBACKER

Lieut. William J. Eadie, pilot of a Navy searching seaplane, spotted one of the little rafts the night of Nov. 11.

Sgt. Alexander Kaczmarczyk of Torrington, Conn., meanwhile had died.

Capt. William T. Cherry of Abilene, Tex., pilot of the Rickenbacker plane was the first to be rescued.

The same day, out of sight of Cherry and his rescuer, occupants of a second raft sighted an island and rowed toward it. On this raft were Lieut. James C. Whitaker, 41, of Burlingame, Calif.; Lieut. John J. De Angelis of Nesquehoning, Pa., and Staff Sgt. James Reynolds of Fort Jones, Calif.

The next day, Lieut. Eadie located Rickenbacker's raft some 40 miles from the island.

Col. Adamson Ill

Col. Adamson, seriously ill, was placed in the plane's cockpit and Rickenbacker and Private John F. Bartek was lashed to the wing. A boat finally came alongside and took off Rickenbacker and Bartek but Adamson was too ill to be moved so Eadie continued taxiing over the open sea.

It was not until early Friday, the 13th, that Rickenbacker and Bartek finally set foot on dry land.

"You'd better thank God for your testament, son. You can see what faith can do for you," said Rickenbacker to Bartek when they landed.

Meanwhile, Whitaker and his party had spent a cold, wet night on their island. Natives, who had been notified that missing flyers were nearby, sought the men in canoe, and found them.

"That native in the first canoe sure looked like a Jap to me," said Whitaker, telling of his first glimpse of the natives. "I thought I'd get a blast of machinegun fire."

Whitaker was the only man not absolutely in need of hospitalization, after he and his companions were rescued from their island next day by a navy plane.

"Hello, Eddie, I hear you've been sick," he said when he shook hands with Rickenbacker at the island hospital.

All the survivors who were hospitalized are recovering and gaining strength, said official advices, but it may be a month before Col. Adamson is able to travel.

Mrs. Rickenbacker Grateful for Rescue

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—Mrs. Edward Rickenbacker said Sunday that during the 23 days her husband, Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker was reported missing in the Pacific, "I realized how grateful we should be for the simple things of our daily lives."

Speaking at a ceremony in which a flag was dedicated to 21,000 residents of the Yorkville section of New York now in the armed forces, Mrs. Rickenbacker said:

"Throughout the period that we waited I thought of many things. I realized how grateful we should be for the simple things of our daily lives.

"Maybe some of you in this crowd helped to make the raft or pack the food containers which sustained the members of the party for those 23 terrible days at sea.

"There are no 'little people' in this country. We all have a hand in every part of it. The 'little people' are those downtrodden ones in the occupied countries who are told what to do and when to do it, and who don't in any way have a voice in their own affairs."

OVER-BUYING MAY LEAD TO RATIONING

Public Likely To Force Control Over All Food.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—Over-buying of food products by householders fearful of future hoarding programs may force the government into adopting anti-hoarding regulations.

An official disclosed today that "panic-buying" of foods and other commodities has become widespread enough to give the office of price administration concern.

"The hysteria seems to be getting near the point where we are forced to consider the rationing of things that otherwise wouldn't have to be rationed," explained the federal official, who declined the use of his name.

The proposed anti-hoarding regulations now under study by the OPA, he said, would compel purchasers to declare their present supply of any rationed article they bought. Any such regulation, he added, would be difficult to enforce since the OPA has no plan of invading private homes to inspect food stocks.

WAR PLANT

answer any questions that might arise regarding the application blank. The next step is a chat with an experienced interviewer who talks with the applicant in the interests of determining the job for which he or she is best fitted.

Simple Dexterity Test

Women applicants are also given a finger dexterity test which consists of a small mechanical assembly operation, also to determine the type of job for which they are best suited, Mr. Lake commented that women who have been knitting, sewing or doing other similar work requiring nimbleness of fingers are unusually adept in the assembling operations. This, plus a possible preliminary physical examination, concludes the first day's visit unless the applicant is hired at once. Otherwise the applicant is told when to report for work.

If a person is now in war work he or she won't be considered for employment at the ordnance plant unless a signed release from the present employer is presented.

The applicant's first day of work involves reporting to the company's identification room where fingerprints and an identification photograph are taken. If the applicant works on a production line he or she is fitted with safety shoes. The applicant then signs up forms for the company's records, is given opportunity to sign up for war bonds and fills out a questionnaire to be used as a basis for determining what kind of bus or other service is needed to get the employe to work. Time card and personnel record cards are made out and the applicant then goes to the training room where he or she is given instructions as to safety, the product to be manufactured, is shown the various functions of the product, is given instruction about his or her particular job and is taken on a tour of operations to observe the various steps in the manufacturing process.

An average of 75 persons daily are being employed now, and company officials hope to increase this number.

Transportation Provided

Some phases of the transportation setup are already being worked out. Buses operate regularly between downtown Marion and the ordnance plant entrance. U. S. Rubber Co. buses pick up workers at the ordnance plant entrance and distribute them over the war plant area. The company's buses cover the area regularly.

Eventually the company probably will operate three shifts of workers and transportation facilities will be increased accordingly.

Manufacturing operations will be carried on at various centers scattered throughout the large war plant area.

U. S. PILOT KILLED

LONDON, Nov. 23— A United States army air force pilot was killed yesterday when he crash-dived his faltering plane into a football field in a crowded London district in order to avoid hitting a row of small homes. The name of the pilot was not announced here.

William C. Wooley, Former County Official, Dies

William Clark Wooley, 82, of 213 Short street, former Marion county commissioner, died at 2:15 p.m. Saturday in the City hospital. He had been ill two months and was removed to the hospital two weeks ago.

A native of Auglaize county where he was born Oct. 3, 1860 to Stephen B. and Margaret Dean Wooley, natives of Ohio, he had lived in Marion for the last 45 years. His marriage to Miss Alzilda Turner took place at Ada, Sept. 10, 1885. Her death occurred Aug. 6, 1926. The family came to Marion from Kenton.

Mr. Wooley was a stone contractor and road builder nearly all of his life. He was elected and served two terms as county commissioner.

Surviving are six children, Mrs. [illegible] Kerr of 503 North Main street, Mrs. Walter C. Bailey of 395 North Main street, Scott M. Wooley of 215 South Main street, Homer L. Wooley of Detroit, James R. Wooley of 593 Park street and Mark Wooley of Kenton. Nine grandchildren, two great-grandchildren, and two sisters, Mrs. Levi Kanter of Ada and Mrs. Mary Brittingham of Lima also survive.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Schaffner-Denzer funeral home at 300 East Center street, with Rev. J. R. Dillis, pastor of Oakland Evangelical church, officiating. Burial will be made in the family plot in the Marion cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home this evening and until the funeral hour.

Loss of Another U. S. Destroyer Is Reported

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—News that the United States had lost an additional destroyer in the Nov. 13-15 battle of the Solomons was balanced today by the sinking of a Japanese destroyer off New Guinea.

The Japanese ship was destroyed by allied bombers while apparently attempting to land reinforcements at Buna, northeast coast base which is gradually being encircled by Australian and American troops.

Loss of the American destroyer which sank the night of Nov. 16, from torpedo damage suffered during the previous night's action, was reported by the Navy yesterday. The officers and crew were rescued by another destroyer, with no loss of life reported.

This brought to nine—seven destroyers and two cruisers — the total American naval casualties in the big battle that ended in the smashing of a Japanese invasion armada headed for Guadalcanal island. The Navy has reported 28 Japanese ships sunk and 10 damaged.

Film Actor Errol Flynn Called Into Court Today

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23—Film Actor Errol Flynn was summoned into court today for arraignment on charges he committed statutory rape upon two 17-year-old girls.

The girls told their version of the alleged attacks at Flynn's recent preliminary hearing, but Flynn did not take the stand.

His first accuser was Betty Hansen, a soda jerker from Lincoln, Neb. She testified Flynn was intimate with her during a gay party at a fashionable Bel-Air home.

Shortly afterward, Peggy Satterlee filed a complaint against the actor, alleging he twice raped her aboard his yacht on a trip to nearby Santa Catalina island when she was but 15.

Flynn through his attorneys, has denied the accusations.

BEGINS SENTENCE

Convicted of the slaying of Gordon McNaughton, ex-big league baseball player, as a climax to a love triangle, Mrs. Eleanor Williams, above, is shown as she departed from Cook county, Chicago, jail to begin a one to 14-year sentence at the Dwight reformatory.

PREPARED WAY

Writers of history will pay particular attention to the tall men in this picture when they record the details of the U. S. invasion of North Africa. The tall man is Robert Murphy, head of the U. S. consular force in France and its African colonies. It was he who prepared the groundwork for the Allied occupation of North Africa. Some are comparing Murphy, shown with M. Chapoulie, colonial governor of Dakar, French West Africa, with Britain's famous traveler-soldier, Thomas Edward Lawrence, the "Lawrence of Arabia" who played a similar role in the last war.

STUTTGART HIT BY RAF BOMBS

British Report Loss of 10 Planes in Attack on German City.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 23—The German industrial and communications center of Stuttgart was attacked last night by a strong force of British bombers and the air ministry said that low-level observation showed that the results were good."

"Ten of our bombers are missing," the ministry said.

Fighter command aircraft were reported to have attacked freight trains in northern France and fired an axis supply ship in the English channel, further blows against Adolf Hitler's crippled transport systems.

The Berlin radio quoted a DNB dispatch which said incendiary bombs had caused slight damage in one town of southern Germany, but did not identify the target.

The capital of Wuerttemberg province, Stuttgart lies approximately 100 miles southeast of Dover. A center of aviation and electrical industries, it was attacked three nights in succession by the RAF last May.

Submarine and aircraft engine plants are located at Stuttgart.

The city is also an important railway junction.

It was the first RAF raid upon Germany since the night of Nov. 9, when Hamburg and other places in northwestern reaches of the reich were attacked.

Air raid alarms were sounded in Switzerland during the night, which may have been caused by a raid on southern Germany. Otherwise alerts in Switzerland usually indicate British air operations directed at Italy—but British reports today failed to mention any such operations.

Mrs. Shepard Dies in Galion Hospital

Special to The Star

GALION, Nov. 23—Mrs. Daisy Shepard, 65, of Galion died in City hospital here Saturday afternoon. She had been bedfast 18 months.

She was the widow of Harry Shepard. A son, Paul Shepard of Galion survives. Mrs. Shepard was born Nov. 24, 1877 in Galion to Peter and Amanda Ackerman.

Private funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the Snyder funeral home with Rev. H. R. Merle of First Lutheran church of which Mrs. Shepard was a member in charge. Fairview cemetery will be the place of burial. Friends may call at the funeral home until Tuesday noon.

Three Standard Oil Co. of N. J. Executives Quit

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 — The Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) board of directors today had up for consideration the resignations of Walter C. Teagle as chairman of the board and of Edward J. Sadler and D. L. Harper as vice presidents.

Simultaneous retirement of three high executives stirred speculation that their withdrawal from the management of the huge oil concern might have some connection with the government's recent inquiry into its prewar relations with the I. G. Farben Industrie, German dye trust, but this was denied by a company spokesman.

He also belittled published news stories that the executives were quitting because of the $25,000 salary limitation placed by national economic administrator James F. Byrnes.

War Brings U. S. Progress to Dark Spots in Africa

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

CAIRO, Nov. 2—America is creating an outstanding pioneering development out of the jungles and deserts of equatorial Africa in connection with our all-out war effort and a striking example of this is a great port at which I spent some time enroute to Egypt.

The port must be nameless. Actually the existence of the enterprise no longer is a secret from friend or foe, for it has become too important to hide under a bushel.

The port provides unique facilities at a point that affords a gateway for an aerial shortcut from the Atlantic clear through to the orient.

Less than a year ago this was just another fever spot in the swampy jungles of steaming Africa. Today it is a healthful little community which is so modern it even has electric lights and refrigeration.

Our port has the appearance at first glance of being a huge lake, which nature puckishly had set down beside the mother Atlantic. Actually it isn't a lake at all but a huge bay which is almost surrounded by land. It is 15 miles long and three miles wide and is so sheltered that it would accommodate a well nigh limitless armada of flying boats. Behind it are facilities for land planes.

Thus you have a perfect base for war or commerce.

Some 20 acres of land have been wrested from the dense jungle, which continually reaches out to reclaim its own. Neighboring morasses have been drained and on the high ground overlooking the port have been erected many comfortable and well-equipped buildings.

The mosquito menace has been reduced to virtually nil within malaria-carrying radius of two miles of the settlement. This has been achieved by drainage, constant spreading of oil on the remaining swamps.

CRIPPS DROPS FROM WAR CABINET FOR PLANE POST

Formerly Regarded as British No. 2 Man.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 23—Sir Stafford Cripps, regarded as the number two man in the British government a few months ago, dropped from the war cabinet today to become minister of aircraft production at Prime Minister Churchill's behest.

For some time, British political observers said, there had been reports that Sir Stafford had failed to see eye to eye with his fellow cabinet members. They asserted also that in his position as leader of the house of commons he had been unhappy and unpopular with some members.

Churchill, however, in asking that Sir Stafford take the ministry of aircraft production, said his proposal was "conceived solely to meet a most serious war need."

Into the war cabinet, the government's inner circle, went another Laborite, vigorous and popular Herbert Morrison, who for years has been marked as a potential prime minister in event of labor regaining power. He retained his posts as home secretary and minister of home security.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden took on the additional duties of leader of the house.

GESTAPO REPORTED RUSHING TO ITALY

German Agents Hastily Build Defense Works.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 23—The Moscow radio broadcast a Tass dispatch today reporting that German gestapo agents had arrived at all Italian ports on the Adriatic and were feverishly building coastal fortifications.

The Soviet news agency said the greatest activity was on the heel of the "Italian boot" along Otranto strait, which connects the Adriatic and the Mediterranean. Traffic in this area, lying opposite Albania, was reported under restriction.

This was among a crop of continental reports of growing apprehension and sagging morale caused in Italy by allied successes in North Africa.

One account from Turkey said reports received by diplomatic sources told of the dispatch of 60,000 German "tourists"—all men of military age—to Italy in the last three months to bolster Italian morale.

A Balkan source said the Germans were building large fortifications along the Italian-Austrian frontier as a sort of "second line" of defense.

From Stockholm, the London Sunday-Dispatch received a report saying Premier Mussolini had sent his righthand man, Aldo Vidussoni, secretary of the Fascist party, to inspect defenses on the island of Sicily "in view of the turn the fighting has taken."

"Italian troops are being rushed to strengthen the island's coastal defenses," said this account. "Antiaircraft guns are being hurried from factories at Turin, Milan and other industrial cities in the north to ward off expected air attacks from Malta and in the near future, from Tunisia."

Egypt imported about 10 times as many cigarets from both the United States and the United Kingdom in the first six months this year as in former comparable periods.

TWO COOKS HELD IN POISON DEATHS

Detained by Police After 47 Die in Hospital.

By The Associated Press

SALEM, ORE., Nov. 23—Two cooks at the Oregon state hospital for the insane where 47 inmates died last week after a dinner of poisoned scrambled eggs, were detained by police today.

District Attorney Miller Hayden said he was preparing a charge of involuntary manslaughter against A. B. McKillop, assistant cook and a charge of obstructing justice against Mrs. Mary O'Hare, chief cook.

Hayden gave this account of the tragedy, which made more than 400 inmates ill:

McKillop, in violation of the institution's rules, sent an inmate to the basement to get powdered milk in which to mix the eggs. The inmate, George A. Nosen, 27, Medford, Ore., who entered the asylum voluntarily, dipped into the wrong storage can and brought back six pounds of roach powder.

McKillop unsuspectingly mixed the roach powder, similar in appearance to powdered milk, with the eggs.

The cooks discovered Nosen's error after the inmates became ill but withheld their knowledge until Saturday night, when they broke down under questioning, Hayden said.

Thanksgiving Service Set at White House

By The Associated Press

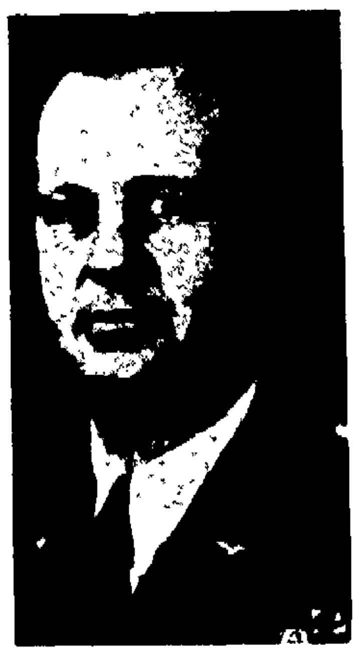
WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—President Roosevelt has asked the military and civilian leaders of the government to attend a service of song and prayer at the White House on Thanksgiving day.

Announcing the invitation today the White House said the services would be in charge of the Reverend Howard S. Wilkinson, rector of St. Thomas Episcopal church which is Mr. Roosevelt's Washington church affiliation.

Invited to attend the services, which will be broadcast, are members of the cabinet, Army and Navy chiefs, heads of governmental agencies, supreme court and congressional leaders.

There will be no sermon and the Thanksgiving services will open with the Chief Executive reading the proclamation in which he called upon the nation to observe the day as one of prayer.

ESCAPES DEATH



More than 70 bullet and cannon shell holes were counted in the plane on which Brig. Gen. Patrick Timberlake (above) was a passenger on one of the longest bombing flights of the war. Gen. Timberlake is chief of the U. S. Army air force bomber command in the Middle East. His plane narrowly missed being shot down by Axis fighters as it returned to Egypt from the bombing foray.

Rush Date

Susan rushed to the telephone, not knowing exactly why, and called the Pi Gam house. She asked for Todd.

She couldn't conceal the emotion in her voice. "Todd, this is Susan. I must see you immediately. Please, Todd, you mustn't refuse."

He seemed to catch the under current in her tone, hesitated for an instant, then said, "I'll be over."

"No," she replied. "Meet me in back of the library. I'm not at the house, now. In about 15 minutes."

He was there before she was. There was a defensive, belligerent attitude in his, "Well....?"

She slipped an arm through his. "Let's walk down the hill toward the Stadium." She started him in motion, feeling his reluctance. The cold November air felt good on her face.

He stopped under a large oak tree. "Well?" he repeated, a little more firmly.

"Dr. Coulter confessed just a while ago to killing Phil Humphries. Oh, I know it's incredible but it's a long story...."

She told him everything, quickly, in a torrent of words, while he stared in very evident amazement.

"....And Todd—another thing. I wasn't ever going to mention this but now that I'm bursting I've got to. I'm glad you didn't do anything you would have regretted Saturday."

"What do you mean?" he said sharply.

"Anne Trevor was in a phone booth next to the man who called you Thursday night about the $2,000—or was it $2,500? We—well, we put together the conversation from what Anne heard at her end. Todd, I would have died if you—if—"

His face softened. "It would have meant that much?"

She nodded without looking at him.

Summer's Child

"I'll have to tell you the complete story of that," he said. "There are some things you don't know."

"Not now. Save it, Todd. Am I being too bold and over-confident if I say we've both been foolish? Or am I merely the braver of the two in admitting something?"

He just looked at her.

"Oh, I hated you for running away after my father spoke to you," Susan continued. "And I had to swallow a lot of pride when I called you tonight.

"Remember, Todd, that day last week when you bumped into me outside the Economics Building? You said I was the casualty, not you. You were right, Todd, and I know what you meant."

She leaned against the tree. "Okay, quarterback. I ate crow. A big, bitter mouthful. It's your turn to call the play now. Call it any way you see it."

Todd looked at her face. Her expression was a mixture of hardness, defiance — and perhaps breathless hope.

There were thoughts in his own mind just as mixed, just as confused but there was a sudden, impelling desire that smashed them all.

He took her by the shoulders. "When in doubt you're supposed to punt," he said softly. "I'm not punting."

He drew her close, tilted her chin with one hand and kissed her.

"What about your father?" he said. Todd was grinning now. "I called him a muddlehead and Lord knows what else."

"Well, he was a muddlehead, wasn't he? Anyway, don't worry His next two letters told me how miserable and sorry he felt."

"He should have told me that," Todd sulked.

"He will. I'll guarantee it."

Then he jerked away for an instant. "Hey — I've already told Tom Hazen I'd accept his South American proposition. That gives you your choice of waiting for almost a year or—or—"

"Or what?" she challenged impishly.

"It'll be awfully warm down there," he threatened darkly, significantly.

Susan, burrowed back into his arms. "I'm strictly summer's child," she said softly. "The warmer the better. . . ."

All-American Thanksgiving

TURKEY 'N' FIXIN'S . . Nothing is missing from America's Thanksgiving table.

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
Associated Press Food Editor

You can have a Thanksgiving dinner as usual without retarding the war effort. There are no priorities on turkey and other poultry, and the good old trimmings that go with them on this American feast day.

Your dinner can be festive without being costly. Some of the finest products of American farms, gardens and orchards are relatively inexpensive. Golden pumpkins, ruddy cheeked apples, ruby red cranberries, tawny nuts and a host of other fruits and vegetables stand ready to serve us in traditional bounty.

If you open your dinner with oyster cocktail, here is a new nifty dressing easy to make. To serve 6 to 8 portions, mix together 2 tablespoons catsup, chili sauce and horseradish, 1 tablespoon lemon juice and ¼ teaspoon each salt and paprika. Mix with a fork and chill, stir several times and place a tablespoon on 4 or 5 small chilled oysters on the half shell or filled into small cups lined with crisp lettuce or cress. Top with lemon wedges. This cocktail is fitting for any fowl or meat meal. Oysters are not expensive now and they are brimful of valuable minerals.

For a heartier opener for the meal let soup take over. Combining canned soups is a time saver. To serve 6 to 8 mix together 2 cups each corn and asparagus soups, add ½ cup milk, ¼ teaspoon each salt and paprika and 1 tablespoon minced parsley. Simmer covered in double boiler 15 minutes to heat thoroughly and blend flavors. Serve in cups and top each portion with a dash of whipped cream and sprinkle with more chopped parsley. You may prefer combining tomato and celery flavors.

Cubed or sliced grapefruit and oranges, chilled and then heaped into small glass cups or halves of avocado make refreshing appetizers for Thanksgiving dinner. When ready to serve, sprinkle each portion with a little honey.

If turkey is the chosen fowl, try this corn stuffing: Simmer 5 minutes in ¼ cup chopped salt pork, 1/3 cup chopped onions, ½ cup diced celery and ¼ cup minced green pepper (optional). Pour over 3 cups drained canned corn, 5 cups cubed bread, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon paprika, 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning and 1/3 cup butter or margarine, melted. Mix lightly and you have enough to stuff a 10-pound turkey. Make half the amount for a 5-pound roasting chicken. And half the amount can be used for filling a couple of domestic ducks.

The vegetable outlook is quite bright for this feast. So you can select from a variety of specials. Buttered broccoli sprinkled with slivers of toasted almonds is a new treat. And a carrot ringfill new treat. And a carrot ring filled with buttered brussels sprouts will fit in deliciously with any preferred fowl. Creamed onions baked in a shallow pan and then sprinkled the last 5 minutes of cooking with grated cheese make a grand dish, not too heavy. Beets with horseradish sauce go well with turkey, duck or chicken and the gay color lends interest to the table.

Orange cranberry relish takes on its wartime dress when syrup is used as part of the sweetening. To make a quart of relish which will keep several weeks in the refrigerator, mix together 4 cups chopped cranberries and 2 cups diced oranges, sliced and seeded and then the pulp and rind put through food chopper. Add 1 cup sugar and 1 cup corn or maple syrup or honey. Stir well and chill several hours or a day before serving.

Lime or cranberry sherbet is refreshing served with the main course. And spiced apple sauce or apricots tie in nicely with meat or fowl. No salad is really needed for this big meal since probably celery and cranberries in some mode will be on the menu. However, grapefruit or cheese-stuffed fig salad with French dressing is appetizing when served icy cold.

If you have decided to swerve from the usual pumpkin pie dessert, try this steamed harvest pudding. It is economical and patriotic. Mix together 1 cup flour, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon and ½ teaspoon each cloves and nutmeg, 2 cups sugar, 1/3 cup molasses, 1 cup raisins, 1 cup chopped dates or prunes, 1 cup each grated raw potatoes and carrots and ½ cup chopped nuts. Fill a greased mold 2/3 full, cover tightly and steam 3 hours. Serve hot with lemon, sherry or hard sauce.

CHILDREN HELP SAVE CROP

By The United Press

HOLLISTER, Cal — Patsy and Dick Renfrow, age 8 and 9, bow to no one when it comes to picking prunes. The children pitched in to aid on the Gene Sharp ranch when farm labor shortage threatened the crop, and together brought in 15 tons of fruit. Their earnings will be invested in war bonds.

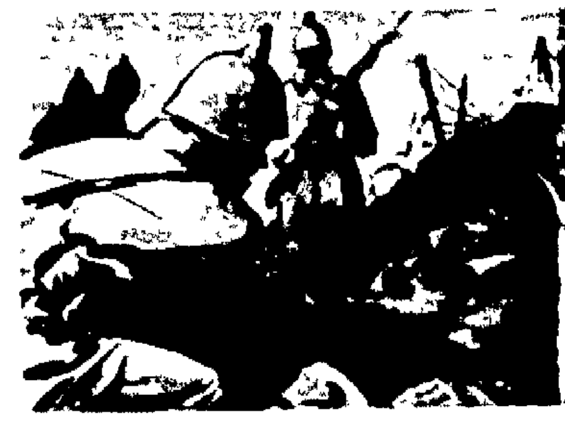
Gen. Giraud in Action Against Nazis Again

Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, presented by the Nazis as worth half a million men [illegible] raising an army of French to fight the axis. These are high-lights of his career.



1914 — Tall, fearless Captain Giraud was wounded and left for dead after leading a French bayonet charge early in World War I. Captured by the Germans, he disguised himself as a peasant and escaped. By 1915 he was again leading troops against the Boche.

1925—Campaigning in Morocco against the Riffs, Giraud quarreled with his superior officer, Marshal Petain, because he considered the latter's tactics too cautious. In a year of bloody African warfare, which vanquished Abd-el-Krim, Giraud was again seriously wounded.

1942—Military governor of Metz at the outbreak of the second World war, General Giraud commanded two French armies during the Battle of France. Nazis captured him in a tank. Last April he escaped from a German prison again—this time by fashioning a 57-foot rope which he used to lower himself down a wall. The fuehrer posted $40,000 reward, but Giraud reached safety.

FREEZE AFFECTS ALL OF BUTTER SUPPLY

Stocks Reported at Low Point As U. S. Acts

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 23—For all practical purposes nearly all cold storage butter supplies held in 35 market centers temporarily are frozen, dairy traders said today although the government freeze order applied to only 50 per cent of such stocks.

The war production board froze stocks last week-end on the basis of the largest amount held in warehouses on any date between Nov. 6 and Nov. 20.

The 35 principal market centers to which the order applies, handle, on the basis of the five year average of 1937 to 1941, approximately 78 per cent of the total United States cold storage butter supplies.

Dealers pointed out that warehouse holdings in 10 representative cities for example, were at a peak Nov. 6 when stocks were close to 45 000 000 pounds. Since that time they said, however, constant withdrawals brought supplies down to slightly more than 28,000 000 pounds last Saturday.

On the basis of the government's order, they said, these cities must ear-mark half of their Nov. 6 holdings, or 22,500 000 pounds for the government. While this amount is only 50 per cent of Nov. 6 supplies, it is very close to the 28 000 000 pounds now on hand.

Traders pointed out moreover, that warehouses will be unable to release any holdings until it has been determined which supplies are to be ear-marked for government use and questions about quality and price are decided.

Although WPB officials depreciated the possibility of rationing to consumers dairy traders asserted the wholesale trade has been rationing butter to retailers for the past few weeks.

TWO OHIO FLIERS KILLED

WASHINGTON Nov. 23—Two Ohioans were killed in widely separated army plane crashes over the week-end. Lt. Thomas R. Rankin 25 of Springfield O. pilot of a light bomber was one of three killed in the wreck of his ship near Wayne Okla. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Rankin. The Greenville S. C. air base reported Sgt. Otis D. Fryer Jr., 19, an engineer of New Philadelphia O. among three killed in the crash of a medium bomber.

Admiral King 64 Today, But There Is No Rest in Sight

Retirement Day Means Nothing To America's Top-Ranking Naval Man.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Nov. 23 Admiral Ernest J. King, tough boss of America's toughest naval war, today reached the age at which most officers retire, but for him there was no prospect of an easy chair by the fireside until victory is won.

It seemed rather that in the months ahead his two-man job would become ever more complex and demanding, for every new allied advance, every opening of some new battlefront means an additional burden on allied lifelines, and guarding those supply routes is the navy's foremost task in this global war.

ADMIRAL KING

King became 64 today, and associates described him as being in excellent health despite the responsibilities which ordinarily demand at least nine busy hours a day of planning staff meetings and decisions affecting the fate of scores of ships and thousands of men. Sometimes his days run to 18 or 20 hours of work.

Sixty-four is the legal retirement age for all officers except those of top rank with active command. The law provides that the exceptions — men like King—should not be subject to retirement until their work is finished, and King's seven-ocean job is just getting well underway.

The slender, sharp-eyed admiral came to Washington last December from command of the Atlantic fleet to assume the duties of commander of the United States fleet. In March there was added to this assignment that of chief of naval operations. He organized two staffs, one for each of his two functions, and has been, ever since, the sole director of all naval activities, subject only to President Roosevelt and Secretary Knox.

King arrived here with a reputation for being eminently fair-minded but completely hard-boiled in his demands for performance. Navy men summed it up by saying he "ran a taut ship," and he still does.

"He keeps his staff on its toes," a fellow officer commented. "No matter how fast you ever worked for any other admiral you must work about 10 times as fast for him."

When there is a battle to be fought the naval commander in the area fights it. King plans the overall strategy which anticipates the focus [illegible] of [illegible] American naval venture. His moves are coordinated as he says, with the plans of the army and of our allies.

Marion Area Soldiers Leave Fort Hayes

Men from Marion and surrounding counties who reported recently at Fort Hayes have been sent forward to training camps, according to a report today from the public relations office. John A. Longnecker Jr. of Green Camp, Carl J. Sulser of near Galion, Joseph R. Bronson of near Marengo and Frederick S. Beck of Marysville were sent to the Army air forces replacement training center at Atlantic City, N. J. Clarence L. Helmuth of Mt. Gilead was sent to Fort Bliss, Tex. Dwight P. Fox of Cardington was sent to Camp Sutton, N. C. Robert F. Lutz of near Marengo was assigned to Fort Hayes and William F. Graumlin and Beryl L. Riley both of Marysville were sent to Ashford General hospital, Greenbrier hotel, White Sulphur Springs, Va.

WAR CLOSES MANY PENNSYLVANIA INNS

"Closed for Duration" Signs Follow Rationing.

By International News Service

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — Pennsylvania's Inns, long famous for their country cooking and generous servings, are on their way out.

Terse "closed for the duration" signs tell the tale of gasoline and tire rationing that led to decreases up to 75 per cent of the hostelries' business. The cash register in Buck County's Cat and the Fiddle for instance which once rang up a daily average of $750, recently totaled 35 cents.

"We couldn't have kept it going this long," Mrs. Joseph N. Aaron wife of the proprietor said, "if it hadn't been for our victory garden. When a customer came in I used to bring in from the garden whatever was in season."

Now she plans to close the inn, and her husband has taken a job in a Doylestown woodworking mill.

George Slotter owner of Doylestown's Fountain House reported that his profits are down 30 per cent while Franz Brugger, proprietor of the Pipersville hotel, noted a 75 per cent drop.

Can't Live on Week-ends

"The week-ends are holding up fairly well," Brugger reported, "but we can't live on week ends."

John Krautstein, whose Water Wheel tavern in Doylestown is 228 years old, is faced with the unusual problem these days of having steaks and no customers.

Even the Howard Johnson restaurants, situated on the busiest highways have felt the pinch of rationing. One manager pointed out that his tourist and traveling salesman trade had almost disappeared, and that local residents are almost entirely supporting the establishment.

Has Victory Bar

Leonard Dean, of the Hickory House, Willow Grove, has closed his dining room, too, but is making out well with his Victory Bar and room rentals, he said, probably because of the nearby war plant.

Only Frank Conti, who specializes in steak and spaghetti in his Warrington hostelry, reported that business was better than ever before. Most of his trade, he said, comes from the naval training base near Horsham.

"But," he said sadly," my chef was just ordered to take his physical examination, and if he's inducted, I don't know where I could ever get another one."

Brown Coaching System Nets Ohio State First Big 10 Title Since 193

Bucks Strike Three Times by Air To Trounce Mighty Michigan, 21-7.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 23 — A new theory of football brought to Ohio State by Paul Brown, former high school coach, today makes the Bucks Western conference champions and topnotchers nationally.

H. O. "Fritz" Crisler, Michigan mentor and veteran of 20 years in the collegiate coaching field, saw his powerful Wolverines bow to Ohio 21 to 7 Saturday, then paid this tribute to the Scarlet and Gray gridders:

"They're great. They have speed and talent and they're beautifully coached; yes, beautifully coached."

From the way Crisler talked this was a great compliment to Brown's theory of football—that a perfectly coordinated team able to execute plays with speed and precision can be beaten only by a vastly superior eleven.

Was Team Victory

[illegible] Brown is known in the football world, [illegible] team [illegible] performance [illegible] Saturday's championship triumph over Michigan, he said, was a team victory.

It also was an exhibition of diversified offense. When Ohio's famed ground attack was stopped by a great Michigan line, the Bucks struck through the air eight times with a slippery ball. Six passes were complete.

Three passes went for touchdowns. Each was designed in advance as a scoring play. Their success was the result of precision execution.

Brown came to the Big Ten in 1941 and last year his team lost only to Northwestern and tied a superior Michigan team.

This year, Ohio bowed to Wisconsin 17 to 7—"They played 110 per cent ball that day and we were only going 90 per cent," said Brown—and has won eight games. Saturday the Bucks tackle Lt. Col. Bernie Bierman's Iowa Seahawks here.

Brown came to Ohio State from Massillon, O., High school, which he piloted to scholastic gridiron greatness. But while he was winning his first "big time" championship Saturday, Massillon lost its first football game in 53 contests extending back in 1937.

Win Fifth Title

Michigan Saturday wasn't the perfectly functioning team that beat Notre Dame 32 to 20 the week before, but the alert Bucks so applied their speed that they gave the Wolverines hardly a chance.

The Ohio win gave the Bucks their fifth conference championship and the first since 1939. In 1935, they shared the title. It also was their first win over Michigan since 1937.

Charles Csuri of Cleveland, Ohio's all-American tackle candidate, gave Ohio the break it needed for the first score by blocking a punt.

"Everyone was superb, just superb," said Brown.

"George Lynn's thinking and blocking stand out in my mind as a feature of the game. Bob Shaw did a great job. Paul Sarringhaus was plain swell. Gene Fekete and Csuri were sound and solid. Don Houston was tough to lick. Les Horvath played another great game and Bill Vickroy turned in another of his best. It was a team victory."

Sarringhaus, Shaw and Horvath made the touchdowns on passes and Fekete place-kicked the extra points.

Buckeyes Dynamic in Win Saturday Over Mighty Michigan

By LOREN W. TIBBALS
Marion Star Sports Editor

Champions of the Western conference for the first time since 1939, Ohio State's scarlet and gray-clad Buckeyes today undoubtedly rank right up alongside of the great teams of Boston college and Georgia Tech. For our part we'll take the Bucks, however their 17-7 loss to the Badgers of Wisconsin will probably keep them no better than third in The Associated Press weekly grid poll to be announced Tuesday.

In winning over a mighty Michigan team, regarded by Wolverine followers as a team even more powerful than the Harmon-ized teams of 1938, '39 and '40, Paul Brown's Buckeyes displayed by sheer power and by lightning-like aerial thrust, their right to No. 1 billing among the nation's major collegiate grid teams.

Ohio's great backfield, even greater than in two previous games witnessed by this correspondent, performed slightly better than 100 per cent Saturday. Gene Fekete, who is the leading scorer in the Big 10 and one of the nation's top sophomores, Paul Sarringhaus, who ranks just under Fekete in Big 10 scoring, and Les Horvath, the former Cleveland James Ford Rhoads scholastic star, were brilliant in the Bucks' offensive. George Lynn, captain and quarterback of the championship Ohio eleven, was out in front on almost everyone of the Buck rushes, blocking out one, two and sometimes three Michigan tacklers.

In the line Charles Csuri, Bill Willis, Bill Vickroy and Bob Shaw were the outstanding performers. Csuri, the Bucks' leading tackle candidate for all-American honors, set up Ohio's first touchdown, blocking a Michigan punt which bounded out on the Michigan 35. Moments later Horvath heaved 10 yards to Sarringhaus, who made the catch in the Michigan end zone. Both Csuri and Willis were especially notable on the defense. Likewise for Center Vickroy and End Shaw.

Success of the Ohioans is another pin in the bonnett of youthful Paul Brown, the former Massillon Washington High school mentor who is swiftly becoming one of the nation's foremost coaching geniuses. After a miraculous nine year stay at Massillon during which his teams won 81 out of 89 games, Brown took over the Ohio State reins and in his second year boosted the Bucks to the top of the country's fastest grid league. Last year, his first at the Buckeye helm, the Ohio Staters tied Michigan for second place.

HOLD ON, MISTER

Wherever football fans gathered in Marion Saturday night, loud boistering and plaudits for the Bucks were to be heard. Rightly so, the Ohio State eleven had just knocked off the Michigan powerhouse to grab the 1942 Big 10 title.

However, a few of the celebrants went a bit too far in predicting the future for Ohio State teams. One fan, and one whom I have long admired for his keen interest and fundamental knowledge of football, predicted national titles for the Bucks for the next 10 years. He said Ohio victories in the Big 10 were a cinch for the same period.

Mr., that's practically impossible. It hasn't been done and the chances are it will never be done. It just doesn't happen in Big 10 football. No matter how good a team is almost invariably another team is just as good, or even a little better.

A rubber holder for a smoker's pipe or cigar that is attached to an automobile windshield by a suction cup is a Chicago inventor's idea.

BEARS SCORE 42-0 WIN OVER DETROIT

Victory Clinches Western Division Title.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 23—The Chicago Bears will become the only team in major professional football history to win six national championships if they beat the Washington Redskins in the nation's capital Dec. 13.

The Bruins won the Western division title yesterday by giving the Detroit Lions their 10th straight defeat, 42 to 0—worst blanking of the season—while the New York Giants and Green Bay tied 21-all, removing any mathematical chance the Packers cherished of catching up. Washington moved in by dunking the Dodgers of Brooklyn 23 to 3 and will close its regular schedule at Detroit this Sunday.

Unbeaten in 22 consecutive games and averaging more than 34 points in each of nine straight league triumphs this fall, the Bears return to Wrigley field to meet the Cleveland Rams Sunday and the following week the Chicago Cardinals.

Other Sunday contests send the Cards to New York, Green Bay to Philadelphia and Brooklyn to Pittsburgh.

Dizzy Grid Season Wobbles Toward the Close This Week

Georgia and Sinkwich Pass Up Bowl Bid in 27-13 Loss To Auburn Team.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—With the Big Ten championship tucked away by Ohio State and the Georgia Bulldogs tucked away by Auburn, this dizzy football season wobbles toward the close this week but whatever happens will be strictly anti-climactic.

Conference championships still are to be decided in many of the major loops, however.

In spite of what happened last Saturday, a lot of folks are going to be more than slightly interested in the southern headliner between unbeaten, untied Georgia Tech and a Georgia team that had its dreams of a perfect season and a Rose bowl bid turned into a 27-13 nightmare by Auburn.

The two teams meet at Athens Saturday and Georgia Tech, winner of eight straight games, could wrap up the Southeastern conference title as well as a bowl engagement by winning.

Tennessee meets Vanderbilt in another Southeastern conference game while Alabama tackles Georgia Pre-Flight.

The Thanksgiving day card finds Tulane engaging L. S. U., South Carolina meeting Wake Forest and William and Mary, beaten for the first time by the North Carolina Pre-Flighters, 14-0, facing Richmond.

The season ended for the Big Ten last week, so far as championships are concerned, when Ohio State toppled Michigan, 21-7, but one loop tilt remains to be played this week and other teams have dates with service clubs. Michigan and Iowa ring down the conference curtain Saturday.

At the same time Ohio State will tangle with the Iowa Pre-Flighters, Indiana will meet Fort Knox and Illinois will play Camp Grant. Northwestern plays Great Lakes Naval Thursday and Purdue closes against Camp Shelby. Notre Dame journeys to Southern California for their annual intersectional joust Saturday. Wisconsin's 20-6 triumph over Minnesota Saturday was the finale for both clubs.

CINCINNATI LOOMS AS ONLY UNBEATEN, UNTIED OHIO TEAM

Need Win Thursday Over Miami To Complete Perfect Season.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 23—Ohio wraps up its 1942 gridiron season this week with Cincinnati's Bearcats needing only a win over weak Miami to become the only unbeaten or untied team in all-state competition.

Cincinnati has lost only two games, one to Georgia the other to Tennessee. Ohio Northern, the Ohio conference champion, lost its only game to Albion of Michigan, but was tied by Wittenberg.

The Cincinnati-Miami clash is one of five Thanksgiving day tilts. Other games that day are: Ohio U. at Dayton, John Carroll at Akron, Case at Western Reserve, and Wilberforce at West Virginia State.

Ohio State winds up collegiate football play for the state with its Saturday game against the Iowa Seahawks here.

In Saturday's games, Ohio Wesleyan upset an overconfident Western Reserve 13 to 12 and Denison beat Wittenberg 21 to 6 in the final Ohio conference game. Other scores: Ohio State 21, Michigan 7; Cincinnati 9, Xavier 0; Wooster 24, Wright-Patterson 13; Oberlin 26, Earlham 13; Bowling Green 19, Grosse Ile Navy 7; Fort Knox 7, Youngstown 0.

U. S. CASUALTIES IN AFRICA ARE 1,910

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—The army announced today that American casualties during the initial landings in North Africa were estimated at 1,910 killed, wounded and missing.

A communique said Lieutenant General Dwight D. Eisenhower reported that he was not yet able to obtain a careful confirmation of the casualties, most of which occurred in the capture of Oran and Casablanca.

Very few men were lost in the operations around Algiers.

The total, the army said, was made up of 350 killed, 900 wounded and 350 missing in the Army; and ten killed, 150 wounded and 150 missing from the Navy.

Most of those reported missing, the Army said, probably were drowned.

SONS OF FIGHTING FATHERS STUDENTS AT WEST POINT

Studying at the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., are these four sons of generals leading the allied offensive in North Africa. Gathered around a map of Africa, they are (left to right): Cadets "William D. Clark, John S. D. Eisenhower, George S. Patton and John P. Doolittle.

11 ARRESTS MADE IN CITY OVER WEEK-END

Six for Intoxication; One Held on Union Co. Charge.

City police made 11 arrests over the week-end including six for intoxication, two for intoxication and disorderly conduct, one for speeding and for investigation in connection with recent Union county sheep thefts.

W. H. Keily, 51, of Tiffin was arrested Saturday at 10:58 p. m. on Orchard street on a charge of intoxication and disorderly conduct. He posted $25 bond which was forfeited when he failed to appear in municipal court.

Also arrested on a charge of intoxication and disorderly conduct was Wilfred P. "Mike" Thompson, 24, of 305 Nye street. He was arrested by city police early Sunday morning on West Center street and posted $22 bond which was forfeited when he failed to appear for arraignment.

Clayton Dornan, 27, of Tiffin, charged with speeding 54 miles an hour in a Model T Ford early Sunday morning on North Main street, posted $17 bond for appearance in municipal court. Judge W. Dexter Hazen ordered the bond forfeited when Dornan failed to appear for arraignment.

Lester Streeter, 25, of near Richwood was picked up by Marion city police at 2:09 a. m. Sunday on Orchard street on an investigation. Later he was turned over to Sheriff Roosa of Union county. Police here said a grand jury indictment for grand larceny had been returned in Union county against Streeter. The charge was filed in connection with several recent sheep thefts, Union county officials said.

STATE HEAD OF SPANISH VETS' AUXILIARY HERE

Conducts Annual Inspection of Betsy Ross Group.

Mrs. Ada Kennedy of Akron, department president, conducted the annual inspection of Betsy Ross auxiliary No. 14, to Marion Camp No. 32, United Spanish War Veterans, Friday afternoon in the Legion Dugout. The ritual was exemplified and the inspecting officer complimented the auxiliary on the work the members are doing and the way the ritual was exemplified. The meeting opened with Scripture reading and prayer by the chaplain, Mrs. Hattie Richards.

The members voted to purchase toys for the annual community children's Christmas party and to send gifts to the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Children's home at Xenia and to the wives and mothers of United Spanish War Veterans in the Madison home at Madison, O. Plans were made for a benefit card party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Campbell of 794 Sheridan road Saturday evening.

Mrs. Berha Koster, a guest, won honors in a contest. At 6:30 oclock the auxiliary was joined by members of the camp and a number of guests for a chicken dinner. Covers were placed for 60. The dinner was in charge of Mrs. Dollie Anthony, John Monk, Mrs. Henry Reid and the social committee. The evening was spent with cards and socially. Officers will be elected at the next meeting Dec. 18 and the members will hold a Christmas exchange. At 6:30 the auxiliary and camp members will meet for a potluck dinner.

Burial will be in Marion cemetery. Friends may call at the Boyd-Uncapher funeral home on West Columbia street between 7 p. m. today and 10 a. m. Wednesday when the body will be moved to the church.

Methodist Circle Elects Officers

Circle No. 2, W. S. C. S. of Epworth Methodist church, held election of officers at a meeting Thursday afternoon with Mrs. V. C. Kissell of Durfee Drive.

Mrs. W. G. Bogart was elected chairman; Mrs. J. D. Williamson, vice chairman; Mrs. Grace Warner, treasurer; Mrs. Emil Sweeney, secretary.

Mrs. G. A. Gelbaugh chose for the subject of devotions the 107th Psalm and read an article entitled "Count Your Blessings." Members responded to roll call with "Reasons Why I Am Thankful."

Mrs. Bogart read a Thanksgiving story, "The Last Pumpkin," and gave a talk on stewardship. A Thanksgiving message was given by Miss Margaret Huffman.

The meeting was followed by a covered dish dinner. Mrs. Kissell was assisted by Mrs. Richard Kissell and Mrs. Bogart. Mrs. S. M. Ingmire, Miss Huffman, Mrs. Homer Waddell and Mrs. Earl Shafer were guests.

WEST AFRICA GOES TO ALLIES

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

VICHY (From French Broadcasts), Nov. 23—French West Africa has placed itself under the orders of Admiral Jean Darlan, the admiral declared in a broadcast over radio Algiers tonight.

French West Africa includes the strategic port of Dakar, near the westernmost bulge of Africa's Atlantic coast.

(In area French West Africa is the largest unit of the French empire, covering 1,815,768 square miles, and besides Dakar includes Senegal, French Guinea, the French Sudan, Dahomey, Ivory Coast, Mauretania and Niger. The population totals about 15,000,000.

(Already this great territory was sandwiched between two French areas which have thrown in their lot with the United Nations, the Morocco-Algeria strip to the North and Equatorial Africa to the south.)

STOCKS HELD DOWN TODAY

War Issues Under Pressure and Peace Securities Encounter Profit Taking.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—War stocks were under further pressure in today's market and the recently buoyant peace issues encountered enough profit cashing to restrain their rising tendencies.

Tax offerings remained as a nebulous handicap and other factors were chafing to bullish sentiment.

Prominent stocks on the retreat included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, American Telephone, Western Union, Anaconda, Kennecott and U. S. Rubber.

AFRICA

taken up positions prepared beforehand."

A communique from Cairo said his forces in Libya were pushed back farther yesterday toward the Al Agheila bottleneck, the last good place for a stand short of Tripoli.

While axis announcements indicated that Algiers and allied forces there were under frequent air attack, Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters and Cairo headquarters showed that the axis bases at Tripoli, Tunis and Bizerte were being heavily pounded by American four-motored bombers, allied medium bombers and twin-engined fighters attacking from both the east and west.

U. S. Flying Fortresses and twin-motored Lockheed P-38 fighters of Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle's command blasted hangars and warehouses of the German-occupied airfield at Tunis Saturday and destroyed nine planes.

Three Messerschmitts Down

The bombers accounted for three Messerschmitts. In action for the first time against the Germans, the Lockheeds shot down one and drove off the remainder. Field observers took this performance as an indication that they are equal to the best in the Nazi air force.

Heavy damage was declared inflicted on a Nazi armored column by one of the British advance detachments pushing along the north coast of Tunisia toward Bizerte. A headquarters spokesman said clashes in that area are "growing heavier."

The communique disclosed no details and there was similar reticence concerning a successful stand by allied Frenchmen against two vigorous German attacks. Apparently referring to the same action, an unconfirmed report broadcast by the Morocco radio said the French had repulsed a local enemy drive "on the western front," destroyed four tanks and captured prisoners.

The Morocco radio also declared that "German detachments coming from Tripolitania (western Libya) have crossed the (eastern) Tunisian frontier" and infiltrated west and north of Gabes, athwart an allied belt at the waist of the French protectorate.

A communique from French general headquarters in North Africa said enemy infiltrations had developed along the whole front in eastern Tunisia.

French Guerrilla's Operate

There was still no official word as to whether Marshal Rommel would seek to consolidate the remnants of his African corps with the fresh axis regiments hastily ferried to Tunisia, but allied commanders obviously had that possibility in mind.

Operating in guerilla fashion, French patrols worked far to the rear of axis advanced positions.

German and Italian communiques declared that allied strongholds and supply lines were under repeated attacks by U-boat and bomber.

The Germans, without confirmation in allied quarters, said a German submarine scored three torpedo hits on a warship formation and also torpedoed two freighters and a destroyer in a convoy. The Italians reported their submarines had sunk a "ship of large tonnage" off Philippeville, Algeria.

In Libya, the British Eighth army's mobile formations wheeled around the shore of the Gulf of Sirte between Agedabia and El Agheila in the effort to complete their job of annihilation of Rommel's men.

North African observers expressed belief that the Germans had established strong defensive positions around Tunis and Bizerte, backed up by mine fields.

A Berlin broadcast quoted reports from Tangier as saying that many functionaries of the Italian fascist organization had been arrested in Casablanca, U. S.-occupied Moroccan port.

The German radio said Pierre Laval, dictator of the Vichy government who advocated a French-German alliance in a speech Friday night, was expected to announce "important decisions" today.

U. S. Raising Dandelions for Rubber

By ROBERT E. GEIGER
AP Features Writer

DENVER—Some of the first dandelion rubber plants grown in the west have been a success but don't depend upon them to yield new tires in the near future.

Actually, preliminary investigations have indicated that growing dandelions might be hooked up with the American sugar beet industry and that present sugar beet equipment in 67 huge western factories is suitable for partially extracting rubber.

But again, don't count your tires before they're grown. The situation, agricultural experts agree, is very complex and only a meager start has been made toward solving it. The facts are these.

1. First cuttings from U. S. forest service experimental plantings of Russian dandelions in Montana have been harvested.

2. The yield was estimated by R. A. Coster, in charge of Montana plantations, at from 4,500 to 5,000 pounds of roots per acre, capable of producing from 150 to 200 pounds of rubber per acre. This yield was greater than the average in Russia but it was from irrigated land whereas in Russia dry land is utilized.

3. The plants matured in about one-half the time it takes in Russia.

4. The locations in the United States where it appears the dandelion will grow best coincides exactly with the present sugar beet growing areas. In Russia the roots have been processed in sugar beet factories. This is important because it would eliminate the necessity of building American processing plants requiring strategic materials, such as steel.

Quality Uncertain

"From initial experiments, I would say that the Russian dandelion appears to be a successful crop on the Montana plantations where it was planted," says Coster. Additional experiments must be carried on, however, to determine the quality of the rubber.

"The most immediate major sources of natural rubber are the wild rubber trees of tropical America but there is no prospect that they will provide full relief," E. W. Brandes, head pathologist in charge of rubber investigations for the department of agriculture, said recently.

"That is why the Russian dandelion, which yields rubber the same year it is planted, has been brought in as a pinch hitter on a term that has only one big-name regular, the cultivated Para rubber tree," he said.

Western agricultural experts say the possibilities of synchronizing the production of sugar beets and dandelions on a huge scale, using the same factories for processing both sugar and rubber, are not too promising.

Would Eliminate Feeds

For one thing, the growing of sugar beets is part of an agricultural crop cycle in which the crops are diversified so that the soil is enriched instead of impoverished. These crops include, besides sugar, other important foods and livestock feeds. If dandelions are raised, these food crops would have to be eliminated unless more land could be brought into production near sugar factories.

And farmers of the west already are beset by a labor shortage, scarcity of machinery and other factors that limit production.

RYE TAKES LEAD IN GRAIN RETREAT

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 23—Reversing Saturday's advance, rye today led a general grain price retreat with losses amounting to more than a cent a bushel at times.

Brokers blamed the market's reaction on selling inspired partly by weakness of cotton and securities, liquidation of December contracts and lagging flour and cash grain demand. Some dealers thought peace talk from Rome may have unsettled the markets.

26 STARS ADDED TO FLAG AT CHURCH SERVICE

Map Shows Location of U. B. Men in Service.

Twenty-six stars representing that number of servicemen from the First United Brethren congregation were added to the service flag at the church Sunday night bringing the total number of stars on the flag to 47. Several more stars will be added in the near future, the pastor, Rev. Garrison Roebuck, announced.

A four by three and one-half foot map with colored ribbons for each man in different branches of the service radiating from the location of Marion to places where the men are stationed was hung in the church auditorium.

The prayer of dedication was given by Frank Sands. Mrs. Walter Scranton, Mrs. Harold Prettyman and Mrs. Minnie Van Asberk were the committee in charge of making and placing the flag and map. A framed honor roll with names of servicemen, the date of entering service and places stationed was brought up to date also. Robert Brown was in charge. Rev. Roebuck's sermon topic was "Why the Burning Bush Was not Consumed."

chor close by an island eight miles out in the gulf of Tonking. One 500-pounder apparently dropped down a hatch and she blew up.

The explosion blew out the right side of her stern, three other direct hits smacked directly on her decks, other near misses sent up geysers alongside, and as we left the vessel was afire and sinking rapidly.

The fighter escort dived, machineguns chattering, and did a little dive bombing as well.

Two other ships, one of 6,000 to 8,000 tons and the other of about 1,500 tons, also were badly damaged in the raid, and the 14 tons of bombs and 8,000 rounds of ammunition that were used on the foray spread devastation in the Haiphong dock area.

(A Vichy broadcast quoting Japanese dispatches from Indo-China said 13 persons were killed and 12 injured at Haiphong.)

Early today, in retaliation, the Japanese made a raid on an airdrome in Kwangsi province but without doing much damage.

American night fighters shot down two of the bombers and possibly a third when a flight of three was intercepted. One of the U. S. fighter planes was lost but the pilot is safe.

All the American planes except one returned safely from the Haiphong raid despite heavy caliber antiaircraft fire which bounced the big bombers around as they made their runs over the big ship at 14,000 feet.

My plane was piloted by Lieut. Douglas Weaver of Miamisburg, O.

battalions were reported routed northwest of Stalingrad and much material captured.

"South of Stalingrad," the communique said, "Our troops continue to advance inflicting heavy losses on the enemy. About 600 German officers and men were wiped out and 40 guns and 70 machine guns were captured."

Red Guns Blast Enemy

Russian artillery, it was reported, destroyed seven enemy strong points in the Nalchik area of the Caucasus and dispersed two companies of infantry.

On the northwestern front, Red army troops took a fortified point from the Germans and killed about 400 soldiers while at Leningrad snipers killed 400 more in two days fighting, the communique said.

The main Russian attack was being delivered where the Russians have suffered most this year, on the plains outside Stalingrad.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

I KNEW what I must and must not do in dealing with this sudden emotional outburst of Georges. I must not expostulate. I must be careful to say nothing which could wound the pride of the stricken man before me.

Indeed, I knew that any words would be worse than useless, so I simply returned the pressure of his clasped hands and waited until the paroxysm of sobs should end.

For a scant two minutes the dreary sounds went on, then Georges loosened his clasp on my hands and fumbled in his coat for a handkerchief, which he jabbed against his eyes, as he said,

"I am so ashamed of this exhibition, Aunt Madge! I crave your forgiveness. I do not understand why I should give way like this, for I have always been able to control myself. Today I have behaved like a baby."

"Not like a baby, Georges," I said, looking steadily at him, "but like a strong man who finds sanctuary after torture."

"I know," he said, "but as a boy I was taught that it was a shameful thing to weep. I was flogged when I did, even if I had real cause for tears."

I winced at this glimpse at the Spartan training of youthful royalty, and his eyes showed almost wistful comprehension. He kissed my hands tenderly, showing another phase of his courtly training, then rose to his feet.

Compliments Madge

"You are just as you should be, Aunt Madge," he said. "I used to tell Mary that I always felt taller when I talked to you."

I flushed with pleasure at this tribute, for such I knew Georges meant it to be, but spoke calmly.

"Thank you, Georges," I said. "I see you haven't forgotten how to pay a pretty compliment. Now tell me what you wish me to do."

"Principally to listen," he said earnestly as he sat down, "then to advise me. To aid me in any way would be too dangerous."

"Suppose you let me be the judge of that, Georges," I said, but knowing that his ingrained chivalry recoiled from subjecting any woman to danger on his account, I added quickly: "But that's beside the question just now. I'm listening intently."

He hesitated oddly at first, then his words fairly tumbled from his lips.

"It is a long story," he said, "but first I want to put a question to you. Is Mary happy?"

Tuberculosis

CHADWICK, in The "Modern Attack on Tuberculosis," outlines a program for the eradication of tuberculosis as follows: "First, a medical professional interested in the problem and familiar with modern methods of diagnosis and treatment. Next, complete diagnostic x-ray and laboratory facilities freely available to all physicians in a community and to the health department, regardless of the patient's ability to pay. Third, and equally important, a well-organized active health department with complete family records of all cases, and a public health nursing service capable of teaching preventive measures in the home and maintaining effective contact between patient, doctor, and health department."

This indicates that tuberculosis is very largely a public health problem, with which conclusion everyone, I think, will agree. A great deal of work, however, is being done by representatives of the National Tuberculosis Association and this work is financed by the sale of Christmas seals each year. A very small amount of money spent by everyone who is able to buy a few leaves of these seals, and that includes nearly everybody in the United States today, will assure your community of an intelligent attack upon tuberculosis during the coming year.

Remember that during war years the necessity for tuberculosis control increases rather than decreases and the need for funds and for active preventive work is greater than under normal conditions. In Germany the tuberculosis death rate rose from 143 per 100,000 in 1914 to 230 in 1918. In the United States the rate increased from 147 per 100,000 in 1916 to 150 in 1918. Let us see to it that this record is not repeated during the present war if it is possible to prevent such a repetition by buying one dollar's worth of Christmas seals.

There are good psychologic and economic reasons why tuberculosis control must be active rather than left to the initiative of the individual.

The psychological factor involved is that tuberculosis is an insidious disease which develops very slowly—usually without dramatic symptoms that frighten the patient or make him go to a doctor.

It also notoriously leaves the patient rather cheerful. Every tendency is for the patient to put off an examination for slight ill health such as weakness, gradual loss of weight, chronic cough, pallor, anemia and a little afternoon fever.

The economic factor augments this because the modern examination for tuberculosis involves an x-ray, which the patient often refuses because it is too expensive.

This is exactly what happened in the old days before tuberculosis case-searching was instituted in our enlightened communities. When we depended upon the sick person to come in and have an examination, we found in 93 cases out of 100 that he came in too late and there were too many that did not come at all.

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, Nov. 24

This day may be notable for unique events, mysterious, probably breathtaking and dynamic. Extraordinary adventures and dramatic experiences may rise to high and exciting culminations, both in the business and personal activities. While even humdrum or routine affairs may take on a glamorous hue, yet they should be attacked with energy, commonsense and proper perspective as to their urgency. Visions, intuitions and ideals must be submitted to practical development.

Those whose birthday it is are at the threshold of a year in which conspicuous achievement, success and gratification, in both business and romantic aims and aspirations, may depend upon their individual balance, restrained and properly directed action, with a reasonable perspective maintained in the most bewildering, confused, glamorous and intriguing circumstances. With tact, energy, caution and calmness great things may be attained.

A child born on this day although having exceptional if not extraordinary talents and creative ability, may be the victim of self-defeat should it indulge its erratic, curious or psychic turns.
